

Red Parliament Flays Industries

MOSCOW, Oct. 17—(UP)—Budget Chairman of the two Parliamentary Houses Thursday issued a joint condemnation of four major state industries—food, films, clothing and mines.

All are threatened with theft, embezzlement and inefficiency they charged.

They accused Finance Minister A. G. Zverev of laxity and called on the film trust chief to account to the Supreme Soviet for a chaotic situation in the industry.

Some industries were not even meeting half of their production quotas and they added that outmoded methods and machinery ran up losses and waste in other industries.

The denunciation was signed by L. R. Kornietz, Chairman of the Budget Commission for the Council of the Union, and I. S. Khokhlov, Chairman of the Budget Commission for the Council of Nationalities, the two houses which make up the 1,360-member Supreme Soviet or Parliament, which is now in session.

Kornietz, in attacking lagging production figures, declared that "it is the task of the Ministry of Finance's control organs and the Ministry of State control (L. Z. Mekhlis is Minister of State Control) to see to it that the thefts and embezzlement which are still taking place in our people's economy." He cited the cereal and restaurant industries as examples.

Khokhlov said the fault was with Zverev, who "should give more attention to those sections in which the financial work is backward" in order to reduce expenses and unnecessary stocks of materials and equipment which "show ineffective control of the ruble."

Kornietz asked that Minister Zverev, who is head of the Budget Commission, be brought before the Supreme Soviet to explain a 23,000,000 ruble loss in the film industry in the first eight months of 1946. Bolshakov was elevated to his present job when Premier Stalin reshuffled his cabinet in March.

Kornietz said three studios failed to turn out a single picture in 1945 while a studio specializing in children's films produced only two.

Criticizing quality, he said "The Ministry of Film Industry filmed a number of unsuccessful pictures which cannot be shown, spending for this over 14,000,000 rubles." He specified the movie, "Big Life," which cost 4,289,000 rubles but was shelved.

In the first six months of 1946, Kornietz said, shoes and knitted clothes had reached but 40 percent of production quotas while the stocking industry reached only 37.9 percent of its quota.

The budget chairman said losses in the fish industry were high and, he pointed out, wasteful practices at Western mines where, he added, only 70 percent of the coal-cutting machines and 64.5 percent of pneumatic picks were in use.

Budget commissions of both Houses recommended that the turnover tax from oil organizations should be increased to 23,000,000 rubles and the profit tax from civil aviation increased to 112,300,000 rubles.

Urges Atlanta To Plan For Rapid Growth

"There is every indication Atlanta soon will be a metropolis of a million people, but the average person won't believe it because he doesn't know how a city can grow so fast," Dr. Allen Albert, professor of sociology at Emory University, told the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon yesterday at the Ansley Hotel.

"And if the people aren't made to see, they are going to wake up some morning and find they haven't enough parks, schools, or transportation facilities," he continued.

Dr. Albert, who has studied the progress of many large cities, told the Junior Chamber he had found the larger a city was, the faster it grew. He said this was due to the influx of the rural population to any new city, plus the new developments brought into a city by new population.

"It's just like a snowball," he said. "One person calls for another and another until it becomes a sort of cycle."

Dr. Albert did not present a plan for the prevention of maldistribution in Atlanta, but said the situation called for advanced planning of shopping and educational centers.

WATER PIPES IN CAMBRIDGE, MASS., PUZZLE PALE PEDANTS BY POPPING

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 17—(UP)—Water mains were bursting all over this university city Thursday and even the best academic minds were stumped when it came to finding a cause for it.

The pipes have been breaking at the rate of one a day since Sunday. Yesterday three of them went, even as weary laborers were patching up other leaks and pumping water out of streets and cellars.

That makes seven mains that have cracked within five days, and Water Commissioner Timothy W. Good swears he's never seen anything like it in his 30 years in the Department.

"I guess it's just one of those things," he explained with a philosophical shrug.

Could it be that the pipes are wearing out, Good was asked. "Certainly not," he reported. "Some of those pipes have been in only since 1867. Over in Rome, the same type of cast iron pipes have been used for 600 years and they're still in good condition. No, it isn't age that's causing the trouble. It's just one of those things."

other and another until it becomes a sort of cycle."

Dr. Albert did not present a plan for the prevention of maldistribution in Atlanta, but said the situation called for advanced planning of shopping and educational centers.

Canada Woman Faces Gallows in January

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 17—(AP)—Mrs. Evelyn MacLean Dick, 25, was under sentence Thursday to die on the gallows Jan. 7 for the torso slaying of her husband, who had threatened to divorce her. She plans to appeal.

Justice F. H. Barlow, of the Ontario Supreme Court, ignored a jury recommendation for mercy in sentencing the pretty, brunette housewife to hang. The body of her husband, John Dick, 40, was found on Hamilton mountain in March, with head and limbs missing.

Mrs. Dick's father, Donald MacLean, 64, and William Bohozuk, 27, have been bound over for trial on murder charges in the same case. A police officer testified at Mrs. Dick's trial that she told him Dick was killed by Bohozuk, March 6, in a car she was driving and Bohozuk was paid for doing so by MacLean. He said she told him her husband had threatened to name Bohozuk as correspondent in divorce proceedings.

ALLURE A LA NYLON

Butterfly Tattoo Appears On Milady's Dimpled Knee

NEW YORK, Oct. 17—(UP)—Tattooing, in feminine circles normally limited to fat circus ladies, is climbing the social ladder. This season, Madame's demure tattoo on the ankle or knee is the most chic thing in town.

A dainty butterfly, perhaps, would look best on Milady's ankle. Or a dove with a love note, etched provocatively on a dimpled knee. No American flag, no ships or snakes, no mermaids.

The ladies of Park Avenue and Back Bay do these things discreetly. Still the sailors' favorites, hearts and horseshoes, definitely are in vogue. Blue tattoos only, of course. Red's a trifle gaudy—unsuitable with a pink dress.

To make things more engaging, the fashionable tattoo appears only on one ankle—or knee. The location naturally depends upon which asset the wearer desires to direct attention.

Fashion leaders responsible for elevating the tattoo from the lowest rung of the artistic ladder are the manufacturers of Gotham hosiery. Realizing that some women are squeamish, and all women have the right to change their minds, Gotham ingeniously has devised the painless, changeable tattoo.

For the stylish tattoo is stenciled indelibly on the sheerest nylon hose. But on the leg it looks like "the real McCoy."

Women will be able to buy these tattooed stockings in leading stores throughout the country in five designs: A heart, dove, horseshoe, butterfly or cupid.

For their more conservative clientele Gotham has designed metallic stockings, a bit more modest but equally eye-catching. These hose in gold, copper and bronze shades, shimmer iridescently, on the leg.

Made of 15 denier nylon, they are the thinnest, sheerest hose ever designed.

For evening wear these gossamer stockings are shown with the sandal foot. That is, the foot and heel are not reinforced and are as sheer as the upper part of the stocking.

To the hose-hungry American woman, Gotham has another heartening forecast: Nylons won't be scarce for Christmas, and the new year will see the disappearance of nylon lines. For ordinary nylons, of course, Gotham won't guarantee the supply of tattoos.

Cotton's Plight Aired by Pace at Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 17.—Competition from rayon and other synthetic products has created a most critical problem for the cotton growers of the South, according to Steve Pace, of Memphis, chairman of the subcommittee of the House Agricultural Committee, now holding hearings here at the Hotel Peabody.

The purpose of these hearings is to find some way to aid King Cotton in his fight to retain his position as the premier money crop of the South. In face of ruthless competition in all the markets of the world, this fight is realistic drama and its stage is the entire Southern Cotton Belt.

Thursday's session of the subcommittee was the second of a three-day hearing to give the Mid-South cotton producers an opportunity to express their opinions on proposed amendments to the Cotton Quota Act of 1938. The hearings here are the first of a series scheduled throughout the cotton belt and obviously the developments here are fixing the trend for the whole series.

To give Arkansas planters a chance to state their views on the problem, Thursday was designated as "Arkansas Day." And, as on Wednesday, all witnesses, both large and small cotton growers—with one exception—favored continued Government controls for cotton production with price guarantees based on parity percentages. Members of the subcommittee regard the near-unanimity on this subject as the most significant so far developed at this hearing.

The sole objector to the proposed program was R. B. Snowden, of Memphis, who produces cotton both in the Arkansas Delta and the Mississippi Delta. He said he favors the freeing of cotton prices from Government controls and thus allowing cotton to reach its own price level in the world markets.

Rep. Pace, who is a member of Congress from the Third Georgia District, made his announcement about rayon during the afternoon session. He read into the record the latest figures on rayon production.

"In 1946," he said, "rayon production in the United States will be approximately 870,000,000 pounds, equivalent to about 2,000,000 net weight bales of cotton. In 1945, the rayon production was 722,000,000 pounds, equivalent to about 1,850,000 net weight bales of cotton."

"I hear that four or five rayon companies have expansion programs, so that by late 1947 or 1948 they hope to produce 1,000,000,000 pounds of rayon, or equivalent to about 2,500,000 net weight bales of cotton. Within the next four or five years, the rayon industry will try to push its annual production up to 1,250,000,000 pounds a year."

"This situation creates a most critical problem for cotton and we must do something about it," Snowden's testimony created quite a furor in the subcommittee.

All of its members assailed his stand, but he stood firm for no Government tinkering with cotton prices.

"I'm facing reality," he said. "If you let us alone, we'll lick rayon and other synthetics to pieces. But we can't do it with these high cotton prices."

He said he favored dropping Government control of prices at the end of the next two-year period. He advocated payment of subsidies to small farmers for soil conservation, but said that producers of cotton on submarginal lands should get out of the business. It is said that Snowden expressed the opinion of some of the large cotton producers in the rich Delta section of Mississippi.

Pace is directing the hearings of the subcommittee. Another member, E. R. ("Bob") Poage, of Waco, Texas, representative of the Eleventh Texas District in Congress, joined the session Thursday.

During the day, Rep. Orville Zimmerman, of Missouri, a member of the subcommittee, praised the program of farm diversification under way for several years past in Georgia and suggested it as a model for other cotton-producing States.

Georgia's diversification program is pointing in the right direction, he said, "and it's a very hopeful omen for the entire South."

Forsyth's Ordinary Flouts 5 Percent Law

CUMMING, Ga., Oct. 17.—Declaring he considers Georgia's "five-percent law" unconstitutional, Ordinary Jarrett P. Fowler of Forsyth County has certified as an independent candidate for the Legislature George McFarlin, who did not present a petition signed by five percent of the voters, as required by the law.

McFarlin, defeated in the Democratic primary by Rep. Jay Holbrook, will oppose Holbrook again in the general election Nov. 3 in ballots being printed by Ordinary Fowler.

Fowler said this is not the first time he has ignored the "five-percent law."

"An Independent, T. P. Thomas, wanted to run against me in 1943," Fowler said, "and I certified him as a candidate without requiring him to present a petition signed by five percent of the voters."

Fowler said he considered this state law as a violation of the liberty of citizens wishing to run for office. He said he didn't think there could be a law forcing a person to ask voters to let him run for office.

Holbrook could not be reached for comment as to whether he intended to challenge the Ordinary's decision.

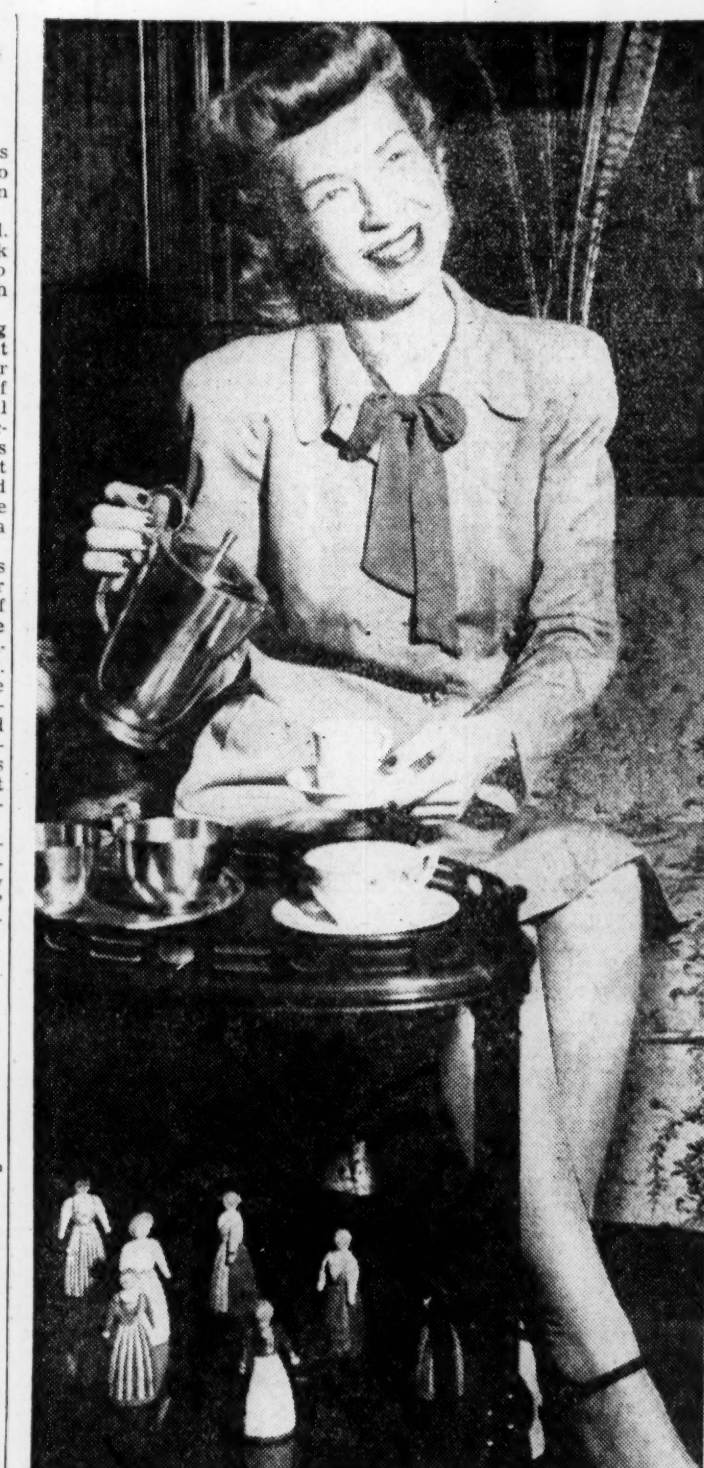

In a test on the constitutionality of the "five-percent law," Fulton Superior Court Judge Hugh Dorsey recently ruled that it was "probably unconstitutional."

Frank Lawson, who wanted to run for Governor on the Constitutional Christian Party platform, challenged the law. Judge Dorsey said the act was "probably unconstitutional," but said the change was "moot" because it was brought too late under the Soldier Vote Act.

Secretary of State Ben W. Fortson, Jr., once issued a joint statement with Roscoe Pickett, Jr., young Republican leader, stating he considered the "five-percent law" unfair since it has made it virtually impossible for anyone other than a Democrat to get his name on the general election ballot.

Several legislative leaders have predicted the law will be repealed at the January session.

The act was passed in 1943 for the purpose of preventing "perennial candidates with no following

ATLANTAN HOME FROM SWEDEN—Miss Mildred Ferguson, of 537 Seminole Ave., N. E., has returned to Atlanta after spending more than a year in Sweden as an employee of the American Legation in Stockholm. Mildred was greatly impressed by most things Swedish—except the Swedish men. Here she is pouring coffee from her Swedish stainless steel pot. Some of her souvenirs of Sweden lie on the coffee table.

ATLANTA GIRL FINDS: All Sweden Lovely Except Pretty Men

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

A pretty blonde Atlanta girl, just returned from 12 months in the employ of the American Legation at Stockholm, Sweden, uses glowing superlatives in describing almost everything Swedish—except the Swedish men!

Miss Mildred Ferguson, of 537 Seminole Ave., N. E., says Stockholm is a "beautiful city of islands." The city's houses and streets she terms "immaculate" and served "in immense quantities." The whole country appeared to her "like a land of milk and honey." But the men . . .

"They are tall, blond and rosy-cheeked," says Mildred. "They are very pretty—much too pretty. . . I like 'hem-men' myself."

Mildred went to Sweden in the Summer of '45, after a six-week training period with the State Department in Washington, D. C. She was one of about 80 girls working in the American Legation in Stockholm.

"But there were lots of Swedes, Poles and Estonians working in the Legation," she explains. "They were always saying to me, 'Millie, say something funny.' They thought everything I said was funny, because of my Southern accent. Most Swedes speak English, but they speak it with an English accent—broad A's and trilled R's. . . It was extremely hard to understand them."

Sweden is very Americanized, says Mildred.

"It is a modern country, much like our own in many ways," she points out. "Nearly all American movies are shown there—and they are much more popular than Swedish-made films. . . The Swedes seem friendly toward the United States."

One nice thing about working in Sweden is the large number of holidays celebrated there, says Mildred, explaining:

"The American Legation observes both the American holidays and the Swedish holidays. In Sweden, the day before and the day after a holiday are holidays, too, so you get three days. It's really pretty nice."

Mildred is home on "emergency leave." She is visiting her mother, Mrs. I. F. Ferguson, and plans

Chest Workers To Fire Opening Gun at Dinner

The Community Chest's drive for funds to maintain 28 Red Feather agencies and the USO of Georgia will get underway tonight at a dinner meeting at the Ansley Hotel.

More than 500 Chest workers will gather to report progress made in the campaign. Guest speaker of the evening will be Frank E. Spain, President of the Birmingham Community Chest, and long an outstanding Southern civic leader.

Goal of this year's drive, which will end on November 1 is $1,142,465. A budget committee of 15 prominent Atlanta businessmen, headed by James C. Shelor, set this figure as the minimum needed to allow Atlanta's chest agencies to operate through 1947.

Tonight's meeting will be sponsored by the Georgia Power Company, which will underwrite the cost of the dinner. All future luncheon and dinner report meetings will also be paid for by Atlanta business firms, as part of a public-spirited effort to reduce campaign expenses of the Chest.

The dinner will get underway promptly at 6:30 in the Dinkler and Civic rooms of the Ansley. A capacity crowd is expected to attend to hear Spain and local Chest leaders fire the opening gun in this year's campaign drive. Presiding chairman of the meeting will be Harry Sommers, who is chairman of the Campaign Committee. Other speakers will include N. Baxter Maddox, President of the Atlanta

Norge Official Sees Industry Moving South

CHATTANOOGA, Oct. 17.—(P)—The President of Norge Division of Borg Warner Corporation predicted Thursday night that more and more manufacturers will set up plants in the South for precision work.

Howard E. Blood said in an address prepared for a Chamber of Commerce dinner in celebration of the formal opening Thursday of a new Norge plant here:

"We believe that in establishing this sort of operation in the South, we are only anticipating a trend on the part of other manufacturers to set up similar manufacturing plants south of the Mason and Dixon Line."

"The South, we are finding, is a good place to work and live, and we like the strong spirit of independent Americanism which still prevails so definitely here."

The 17-acre new plant will produce hermetic compressor units for the Norge refrigerator. Blood said he had been told the plant is "the first mass production precision machine product operation in the South."

Norge officials said the factory, expected to employ 800 to 900 persons eventually, represents an investment of $985,000.

"The extent to which we ultimately expand our operations here and elsewhere in the South will depend mostly on the kind of co-operation we get from our workers," Blood said.

"The industrial future of the South is bright indeed, and we are happy to play a part in it."

A press luncheon was given earlier in the day in connection with the plant opening.

'RELUCTANT TURTLE' LAUNCHED

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 17.—(AP) The Navy unveiled "The Reluctant Turtle" Thursday, a submarine jeep that adds one new talent to the versatile vehicle of World War II fame.

Experts said the depth to which the sea-going jeep may submerge "seems to be limited only to the length of the neck of the driver, whose head must stick out of water."

Marine Sgt. Roy Harmon, of Washington, D. C., veteran of Pacific fighting and driver of the Turtle, wore a diving suit, minus headpiece. The waves lapped over his collar and wet him to the waist.

Hitting the water at 18 miles an hour, in a demonstration for newspapermen, the Turtle threw a spray 20 feet into the air and slowed to a walk.

But the Turtle, using four-wheel power, churned on and the wheels submerged. Then the fenders and finally the windshield disappeared.

Nothing remained but Harmon's beaming smile and two pipes, like periscopes, sticking out of the water. Harmon rode the waves like a duck.

The Turtle is an ordinary jeep equipped with a "submarine" kit. Marine and Navy men at the demonstration said the seagoing jeep might have saved lives and equipment in wartime beach invasions. It also will permit jeep-borne soldiers to ford rivers.

Atlanta's Air Need Stressed In Delta Brief

A brief, emphasizing the need of additional air service for Atlanta, was filed yesterday with the Civil Aeronautics Board by Delta Air Lines in support of the airline's request for a New York-Washington-Atlanta-New Orleans route, it has been announced by Delta.

The 60-page brief contends there is "inadequate air service" between New York and Washington and the Southeast and Southwest, and relates experiences encountered by Southern travelers when attempting to make connections with flights to New York.

The brief also stated that the traffic involved by the proposed route is principally Southern traffic and originates in the South.

Delta asserts in the brief that it is best suited to operate a competitive New York-Washington-New Orleans route because "Delta alone can load the route with an additional volume of traffic, estimated to be 35 percent of the traffic of the route itself, which Delta derives from its Texas extension."

Delta's request would connect Atlanta with New York, Newark, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Wilmington, Richmond, Lynchburg, Charlottesville, Roanoke, Asheville, Birmingham, Meridian, Chattanooga, Hattiesburg, New Orleans, Jackson, Monroe, Shreveport, Tyler and Fort Worth.

Report Arnall To Open Atlanta, Newnan Offices

Gov. Arnall will open law offices in Atlanta and in Newnan when he leaves the Governor's office next January, according to latest reports.

Part of his time will be given to serving as president of a new insurance company, the Dixie Insurance Company, being formed at Newnan. Part of his time will be devoted to a nation-wide speaking tour, as he has been booked for lectures for the next two years. And part will be devoted to writing—his book will be published next month and he has written many articles for national magazines.

But the chief work of Arnall will be practicing law, it was said. In addition to offices in his home town of Newnan, Arnall also is obtaining office space in a large Atlanta building, it was reported. The Governor could not be reached for comment last night. His latest statement, however, was that he had many offers under consideration and had not made a decision yet on what he would do when his term as Governor expires.

Surplus Housing Appraisals Begin

The War Assets Administration is currently appraising some 250 surplus war housing structures at Macon and Statesboro with a view to making them available to veterans under a new program announced yesterday from Washington.

Truman Lauds Nazi Verdicts; Declares Trials Not Finished

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—(AP)—President Truman declared Thursday that the task of meting out justice to Nazi "malefactors" is not finished—that guilty industrialists, diplomats, police officials and others remain to be punished. He did not say specifically how they should be brought to book, but declared he would give "careful consideration" to Supreme Court Justice Jackson's suggestion that the four occupying powers individually hold the trials.

The President gave his views in a letter accepting the resignation of Jackson as United States prosecutor at the International Military Tribunal which sentenced leading Nazis.

"Although your own part in the dispensing of international justice is at an end there remains, as you emphasize, the task of meting out justice to the German militarists, industrialists, politicians, diplomats and police officials," the President wrote.

He added that the guilt of this group "does not differ from the guilt of the criminals who have already been dealt with except that these remaining malefactors played their miserable roles at lower levels."

It was the President's first formal statement on the verdict which resulted in the suicide of Herman Goering and the hanging of 10 of his associates.

Speaking of the recent convictions, the President told Jackson: "I am convinced that the verdict for which you worked will receive the accolade of civilized people everywhere and will stand in history as a beacon to warn international brigands of the fate that awaits them."

Mr. Truman said the precedent established at Nuernberg "becomes basic in the international law of the future," and added: "The principles established and the results achieved place international law on the side of peace as against aggressive warfare."

The informant also gave information on the condition of the bodies of the hanged men. British correspondents had alleged that the executions were bungled, so that some bodies were mutilated and some men strangled slowly. Prison authorities denied it.

Wilhelm Frick appeared to have hit his face on the edge of the trap as it dropped him on the noose, the informant said, and his face was deeply scratched. The informant said that the faces of eight men were drenched with their blood, which had welled from eyes, ears and mouths. On some, especially Keitel and Frick, the informant said, the marks of the noose stood out angrily. It appeared to him, he said, that Julius Streicher might have been strangled without a broken neck.

Some markets, such as Oklahoma City, were swamped with so many animals the yards could not handle them. Others of major importance were on the receiving end of miles-long lines of trucks filled with beef roasts, pork chops, and lamb steaks on the hoof.

Prices which set new records Wednesday receded steadily with almost every new truckload, particularly hogs and lower grade cattle.

Strictly choice cattle went to a new high mark at Chicago, however, odd head going for $37.50, and load lots peaking at $36. The Omaha market set a new record for the third day in a row, hitting $33, two dollars better than Wednesday.

The popular price at Chicago was $20 after an early top had been set at $23, compared with Wednesday's record - equalling of $27.50. - Sheep also were off a dollar to $1.50, topping at $26.50, in comparison with Wednesday's new record of $28.

FRIENDS AMONG ENEMIES

Atlanta POWs To Play Santa to German Children

By BILL BORING

"You know," said Horace Wood, who spent five months and two days as a prisoner of war in Germany, "children are children the world over. We soldiers found that out."

"And, do you know—the little children of Germany weren't our enemies. They were our allies. They proved that time after time again. Their hearts were pure. They were quick to see injustices and they'd do little favors for us. Take in my case, for instance. I was in a lineup being transferred to another camp. I didn't have any cigarettes, so I was rolling a paper of chewing tobacco. I didn't have a match and when I asked the guard for a light, he refused."

"A German boy standing on the sidewalk saw my predicament. He was smoking and so he flipped his lighted cigarette at my foot. I picked it up, smiled my appreciation, lit my cigarette and marched on."

There were other times when little children along the street would give us cheese and bread. This food tasted good to a prisoner of war."

Yes, children are the same the world over. You see them making mud pies, playing tag, kicking a football, or hugging a doll to their chests. Whether in Japan, Germany, France or Africa—children generally are good and kind.

The American soldier found this out. In enemy territory, he knew that his only friends were the children and the American soldier who was fortunate enough to escape capture always had a smile and a stick of chewing gum or candy for the children along his path, no matter what country he was in.

"I think that is why," said Wood, who was an infantry lieutenant during the war and who is president of the Atlanta Chapter of the Barbed Wire Club, an organization of American prisoners of war of all theaters, "the Barbed Wire Club selected as its first project the job of playing Santa Claus to little German children. We remembered they were our friends."

Wood says that German children have been without toys for some five years. The materials and the labor that formerly went into the manufacture of toys were diverted to guns and tanks.

The Atlanta Chapter of the Barbed Wire Club will play Santa Claus to the children of Bad Nauheim, Germany. Toys which are collected by the members will be sent to that German city, where Major William Nichols, an Atlanta man, will distribute them. Nichols has written an appeal for toys.

"If you want to make some little child's heart glad on Christmas Day," says Wood, "won't you send in a toy. It doesn't matter what it is—an old children's book, a broken doll. Anything will do."

The toys will be cleared through the Barbed Wire Club, care of the Atlanta YMCA, on Luckie Street.

Harold W. White, 1411 Belmont Ave., S. E. (Telephone Raymond 8936) is chairman of the toy collecting drive. Any information regarding toy gifts might be received by contacting him.

DR. FRANK LAUBACH
Asks for Praying People.

FOR PEACE:

Beseeches 10 Million To Pray

Dr. Frank Laubach, of New York, author and educator who recently returned from a mission to the Paris Peace Conference, issued a call here yesterday for "an army of 10 million praying people to join the fight for peace and to defeat the menace of the atomic bomb."

He terms this call "audacious," but says he believes it is the only solution.

"Prayer is the mightiest force in the world," said Laubach. "Prayer offers God His channels to punishing men, to hating, frightened, panicky, greedy, twisted men and women. Put 10 million men on the side of God and the spirit of Christ, and they will lift the world's safety."

TOURING COUNTRY

Now Dr. Laubach is touring the country, making public appeals for more enlistments in the army of prayer. He is asking Americans to pray for the Peace Conference delegates who will convene at Lake Success, N. Y., on Oct. 23.

"Unless peace can be preserved," Dr. Laubach said, "the world is headed for annihilation. If we had a war five years from now, an atomic bomb dropped on Atlanta would wipe it out."

"Dr. Laubach believes that America 'should turn really Christian toward the world. It should make a nation-wide effort to lift the rest of the world up to its own level of abundance.'"

FOLLOW U. S. EXAMPLE

"America's courageous leadership," he concluded, "would make all nations grateful. Other countries would at once follow our example and the world would see a blessed rivalry in surprising kindness. Fear of America which has harassed Russia and other countries would change into mutual understanding and confidence."

Dr. Laubach addressed a joint meeting of all of Atlanta's religious forces last night at the Central Presbyterian Church. His talk was sponsored by the Atlanta Christian Council, the Atlanta Council of Church Women and the Atlanta Laymen's League.

City Labor Barred From Offset Job By Civil Service

Atlanta's Civil Service laws will prohibit City labor from eliminating the offset at Central Avenue, Decatur and Ivy Streets, City Attorney Jack Savage has ruled. As a result of this ruling, City Council Monday will be asked to approve the bid of the McDougald Construction Company, which has offered to do the work for $24,850. City Construction Chief Clark Donaldson has estimated he could do the work with City labor for $16,500.

The City Attorney, in a ruling issued yesterday, said all people employed on the job, if the City undertook the project, would have to qualify under Civil Service laws. Council's Public Works Committee in session yesterday, following the City Attorney's ruling, voted to recommend to Council letting the contract to McDougald, the lowest bidder.

Under existing charter amendments, employees of the Construction Department come under provisions of the Civil Service, and the department has no authority to employ workers who are not qualified under the merit system. Donaldson said the law should be amended to permit such employments on capital improvements and for short periods of time.

Comptroller B. Graham West told the Committee the City proposes to sell $2,000,000 to $20,400,000 bonds authorized for public improvements on Oct. 29. Invitations to bid already have been sent leading financial institutions, and West said he anticipates several bids will be filed.

Crowd Hears Yearwood Plea

A crowd that filled the Senate halls of the State Capitol yesterday attended the Parole Board's clemency hearing for William Yearwood, Oconee county war veteran under death sentence for the slaying of Harry Williamson, Atlanta book salesman.

Mrs. Williamson and a large delegation from Rockmart, former home of the Williamsons, and Solicitor General D. M. Pollock of the Western Judicial Circuit, opposed clemency.

Defense Attorney Vane Hawkins presented a petition he said was signed by 934 citizens of Oconee and Clarke counties, asking the sentence be commuted to life imprisonment.

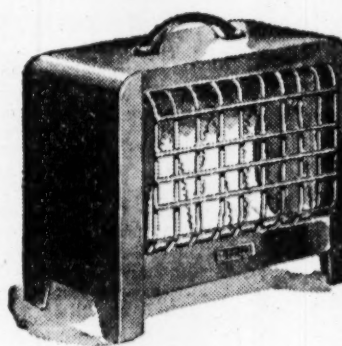

The Board will attempt to have a decision ready before Oct. 22, date of the execution, Chairman Edward B. Everett said, or ask the Governor to grant stay of execution.

SONG OF THE PIN-UP

A Pretty Girl Becomes a Melody

Constitution State News Service.

DALTON, Oct. 17—A pretty girl is like a melody.

And for that reason Sally was the inspiration for a melody.

A pin-up picture of lovely Sally Norton (Sarah Norton Boyles), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boyles, of Dalton, proved to be the inspiration of the current New York song hit, "Get a Pin-Up Girl."

Formerly of Dalton, Sally is now with the Walter Thornton Model Agency in New York, and one of their pin-up favorites.

Answering the request of a GI stationed overseas, Sally autographed and sent him a photograph. Months later she received a copy of his song which he had dedicated to her. It appeared to have possibilities and the song was promptly given a chance over the New York airwaves.

Its success was almost immediate. Then commenced the search for the GI songwriter which finally traced him back to New York, where recently he had been discharged. His first work ever to be published, that GI is now sharing honors with his pin-up favorite, and Sally is quite pleased with it all.

Walton Mob Probe To Go On, Declares U. S. Official Here

Rumors floated from a downtown hotel room here yesterday, where Asst. Atty. Gen. Theron L. Caudle, in charge of the Department of Justice's Crime Division, admittedly was conferring with FBI agents and U. S. Attorney John P. Cowart, of Georgia's middle district, on further investigation of the Walton County lynchings.

Caudle refused to confirm a report that his visit here also entailed discussion with FBI and Department of Justice officials on rumored vote purge investigations in Georgia.

The Washington official at first declared his stop-over in Atlanta, following a lecture before the Citizens' Council sponsored here by the Georgia Citizens' Council Wednesday, was "merely a social visit."

On further questioning, he admitted being in conference with Cowart and Charles E. Weeks, Special Agent in charge of the New Orleans FBI office, now assigned to a special FBI unit reported to be continuously investigating the Negro lynchings which occurred in Walton County late in July.

Caudle told The Constitution,

"Federal investigators will continue to press this investigation. We've had too many demands from the people of Georgia on this matter to drop it."

Washington papers recently carried a story that the Department of Justice was rumored to be on the verge of dropping the probe. FBI Agent Weeks was not available for comment, and Cowart, in whose district the crimes occurred, said he "could not make any statement on the matter at present."

Edwin J. Foltz, Special Agent in charge of the Atlanta FBI office, and U. S. Attorney M. Neil Andrews spent a part of the day with Caudle's group. Both declined comment, and Andrews pointed out that the Walton County case was "out of his district."

Caudle, asked if a vote purge investigation had been completed, said he "believed it had not," but would make no other statement.

Junior Leaguers To Be Instructed In Civic Work

Interpreters of the community, who know best its government, business, social problems, school plans, history and health, met yesterday with leaders of the Junior League, whose novice members they will instruct in civic and welfare conditions of Greater Atlanta.

Mrs. Hugh Dorsey, League President, and Mrs. Lawrence Edge, Educational Chairman, presided at a luncheon given for the lecturing group at Davison-Paxon Company, where Charles Jorgels, President of the store, was host.

Present were Mrs. Everard Richardson, Jr.; Miss Ruth Blair, of the Atlanta Historical Society; Robert K. Taylor, of the Community Planning Council; Miss Florence Van Sicker, Child Welfare Association; Mrs. Frances Scherz, Family Welfare Society; Joe Murphy, Social Security Agency; Douglas Wood, Fulton County Department of Public Welfare; and Bob Rogers, High Museum of Art, all of whom will conduct classes for the 30 new Junior Leaguers.

Others who are scheduled to teach include Mrs. Leonard Haas, W. M. Parker, Rutherford Ellis, Mrs. A. E. Patton, Vice President of the League; Dr. Hines Roberts, James Therrell, Miss Mary Bruce Roberts and Mrs. Lon Grove.

Junior Leaguers, who are pledged to a quota of civic work for the first 10 years of their membership, are briefed in the community's needs by this type of educational series to better equip them for intelligent aid as volunteers.

The first class will be held next Thursday at 10 a. m. at the Junior League Speech School on West Peachtree Street.

Officials of VA Still Silent On Ouster of Grant

Veterans' Administration officials here continued silent after a day-long conference with Hugh G. Grant, Valdosta VA official and former U. S. Minister to Albania and Siam, whose recent protest against Nuernberg executions aroused a storm of protest in the South Georgia city.

Grant was called to Atlanta after A. H. Fuller, District Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, called upon Grant's immediate superior, Hugh D. Wright, Manager of the Valdosta Sub-Regional VA Office, "to effect his immediate removal."

Vaux Owen, VA Georgia Regional Manager, said late yesterday, "It is clear Grant had no intention of speaking on behalf of the VA. His statements were made as a private citizen."

The Georgia VA head added no decision would be made "immediately."

Grant, who Monday telegraphed President Truman, asking him to "stop the murder of the 11 Nazi leaders," renewed his attack yesterday, terming the hangings "an application of lynch law which may be boomerang."

He is employed as chief of the advice and guidance section at the Valdosta office.

Healer of Children Honored by Hospital

By ANN WOOD

In memory of Dr. Michael Hoke, who "healed the afflicted child of the pauper with the same skill and quiet zeal as the stricken President of our country," a bronze tablet on a stone marker in front of the Scottish Rite Hospital was unveiled and dedicated yesterday.

Friends and family of the doctor who founded Scottish Rite, who devised new methods for treating lame children and taught those methods far and wide, gathered yesterday on the lawn to see the unveiling.

TROUTMAN'S EULOGY

Robert B. Troutman, Vice President of the Board of Trustees, paid tribute to Dr. Hoke. "With faith he worked alone until the soundness of his methods was proven. Then his fame spread beyond this community. Those who came to scoff departed as believers."

"He devoted his whole life to the cause of suffering humanity. He made lame little children stand erect. None ever has paid for medical, hospital or nurses' care here. None was able to pay."

"His life is an inspiration to all men. His work shall live as long as little children need help, and as long as love for them springs from the human heart. Dr. Hoke needs no bronze monument to preserve his fame or perpetuate his spirit."

PLAQUE UNVEILED

W. C. Wardlaw, President Emeritus of the Board of Trustees, unveiled the plaque, which was designed and executed by Steffen Thomas of Stone Mountain.

Dr. Hoke opened Scottish Rite Hospital Sept. 1, 1915, in two small cottages with a 20-bed capacity. The Decatur Hospital is the first of its kind in the United States, and is regarded as the mother of all Crippled Children's Hospitals in this country, including 15 Shrine hospitals.

Dr. Hoke was the first surgeon, and served in this capacity for many years until he went to Warm Springs in 1935 as chief surgeon. It was there that he treated President Roosevelt.

A strictly charity hospital, Scottish Rite is supported by the Scottish Rite Masons and proceeds from the annual Thanksgiving Day football game between the freshmen of Georgia Tech and the University of Georgia.

In the 31 years of its existence, more than 9,000 crippled children of Georgia have been treated in the hospital.

Georgia Pilot Unhurt in Crash

APALACHICOLA, Fla., Oct. 17 (AP)—W. P. Law, of Fitzgerald, Ga., pilot of a light plane, escaped unhurt Thursday when his craft hit the water 100 yards offshore in the Apalachicola River here and turned over.

Law was here to pick up a cargo of sea food. Rescuers reached him within minutes of the crash. His plane sank in eight feet of water, but he said it could be salvaged.

Parking Meters

ELBERTON, Oct. 17—The City of Elberton this week installed a parking meter system in the business center of town, making provision for free parking outside of the business section. No cases for overtime were made the first few days.

Sims Garrett, John Goodwin Get $400-a-Month Road Jobs

Sims Garrett, Jr., of Columbus, former member of the State Highway Board, and Johnny Goodwin, of Atlanta, former Talmadge lieutenant who switched horses during the Arnall administration, have been employed by State Highway Department on jobs each paying $400 a month.

Garrett had been listed as Vice Chairman of the State Highway Board, but when his appointment became known yesterday, he declared he had resigned from this body early last Summer and since then attended Board meetings only as a "visitor."

He added he had not participated in Board voting since his resignation. However, no announcement was made of his resignation when it occurred. Garrett said this was because the gubernatorial campaign was getting under way.

A successor has not been named yet.

Goodwin split with Talmadge after serving as one of the Governor-Nominate's right arm men in previous administrations.

Some legal experts on Capitol Hill said they knew of no law preventing a person from being a member of the Highway Board and at the same time serving as a paid employee of the Department supervised by the Board.

The two men now carry the titles of Highway Department Inspectors.

WAYCROSS, Oct. 17—Arrangements have been completed for a church school training institute to be held in Waycross Jan. 27-31. Eight Methodist churches in the Waycross area will participate. Dr. W. G. Henry, Jr., Secretary of Religious Education for the North Georgia Methodist Conference, will be one of the instructors.

Brokers Slow To Trade On Cottonseed Oil Futures

Despite the resumption of cottonseed oil futures trading on the New York Produce Exchange yesterday, Atlanta traders, along with the rest of the nation, waited for the market to steady before beginning operations.

No buying or selling was transacted here or elsewhere, a survey showed, and one broker expressed the opinion the situation will not begin to clear up until Monday as the futures market advances in price. The daily permissible advance on cottonseed oil futures is 100 points on the New York market.

The New York futures market opened at 17.75 cents per pound, the last price when trading was suspended July 10. After opening, an offering was made at 18.75 and there were no takers.

Local refiners reported that actual cottonseed oil trading remained at a standstill, but there was limited activity in other by-products.

Meanwhile, in Atlanta there was brisk trading in cotton futures which dropped off the maximum limit of $10 a bale for the active months. This was the second day in succession that maximum declines have been posted.

Safety Must Come First

Representatives of the Air Transport Association, the Air Line Pilots Association and the Civil Aeronautics Administration meet in Washington today to consider a matter of pressing importance to the future of commercial aviation.

They have been summoned by the Civil Aeronautics Board, which has become concerned, and justifiably so, over the rising tide of air accidents.

Today's meeting follows a warning by Chairman James M. Landis, of the CAB, that airlines must place major emphasis on safety rather than speed.

Too many recent accidents, he said, seem due to personal failure, rather than mechanical. The public, too, has noticed this and is wondering why Mr. Landis and the CAB have not done something about it.

The public will wonder why the recent Eastern airliner which crashed near Washington was allowed to attempt a landing in the poor visibility conditions existing at the time. In the past several months two charter flights crashed in bad weather, one near Richmond and one in Utah. Both had been allowed to depart from the airports when regular airlines were grounded. The public wants to know why regulations do not apply to them as well as the regular lines.

The most recent disaster in Newfoundland apparently was due entirely to human error. The pilot seemingly flew his plane into the top of a hill. The public, which likes to fly, doesn't understand these things. While approving the Landis statement, it will want to know why the CAB itself hasn't done a more effective job.

The airlines have a magnificent record of accomplishment, service and progress. They will be wise not to sacrifice any of it in seeking more speed at the expense of safety.

Now Is the Time for All Good Men...

However dissatisfied Southerners may have become with occasional inconsistencies and ineptitudes of the present administration, they can have no illusions about how they will fare if Republicans gain control of Congress at next month's elections.

That's why they are rallying to the aid of the Democratic Party in Georgia and throughout the South.

During the past 14 years of Democratic rule, declares Alabama's able Sen. Hill, the administration has recognized the injustices done us by their Republican predecessors and has sought to help us remove the injustices, right the wrongs and give us the opportunity to gain a fairer share of the nation's income and wealth.

The "Republican injustices" of which Sen. Hill speaks, he lists as follows:

1. A Republican tariff policy that for over 100 years sapped us economically.
2. Republican freight rate discriminations deliberately devised to block our industrial development, to keep us hewers of wood and drawers of water for other sections of the country.

3. Republican financial and business policies that denied us opportunities and exacted tribute from us to the advantage and enrichment of other sections.

"Many of the things done by the Democrats have meant much to us in the South," Hill told a Montgomery rally this week. "We have profited greatly from various Federal-aid programs which we never would have had if Republicans had been in control of Congress."

Despite defections within its ranks, it is the Democratic Party—and it alone—to which the South can look for continued consideration.

And it is the Democratic Party to which we must give support and allegiance, if for selfish reasons only. Under Republican rule, the South can expect nothing.

The Case of Aurelius S. Scott

One of the many intangibles the first-rate Negro citizen has to combat is the stereotype picture of his race which so many persons have.

And certainly one reason they have it is that so many Negroes fit into that stereotype picture.

We are reminded of this by the somewhat ridiculous Coroner's campaign in Fulton County. As part of that picture there is a Negro candidate, one Aurelius S. Scott.

Unfortunately, he fits the stereotype, even to and including possession of a police court record. In Birmingham's court he was up for disorderly conduct and fined. He was also fined for disturbing the peace. In Atlanta he twice has been arrested on disorderly conduct charges.

By his vague and somewhat windy statements, Candidate Scott fits into the stereotype which causes some persons to think it wrong to educate the Negro.

He has done his people great harm, apparently out of a desire, by no means confined to the Negro race, for publicity, or notoriety.

While entirely unconcerned with Candidate Scott's future, we do think he serves as an excellent illustration of how not to be of service to the hopes and aspirations of his race.

Huey Long And 35 to 1

When the late Huey Long quit his job as a tea salesman he told the sales manager of the McCormick Company:

"I'm gonna be President of the United States. For every man who makes a decent living in this country, there are 35 who just scrape along. I'll help those 35 and they'll help me."

Huey Long set out cynically shouting "share the wealth" and "every man a king."

It worked so well that a cold fear crept over the nation and a great sigh of relief went up when Huey Long passed on to that bourne from which no traveler returns.

But, apparently, what he said caused no one to think save the sales manager, Charles P. McCormick, who went back to take the negative side of Huey's statement and revolutionize the tea business.

He found that at least some of the 35 had never had a real chance and had not failed because of laziness or incompetency.

One great, dismal, obvious fault which the reactionary persons in our country stupidly fail to see is that in the political field the great majority of those trying to do something about the 35 who "just scrape along" are always the Huey Longs.

An exception was Roosevelt, who tried on a national scale. And if you don't think anything was accomplished, take a look at the national income figures. They will demonstrate how many persons have been pulled out of the "below $1,000-per-year" income class in the past 10 years. And the war didn't do all of it by any means.

Maybe I am wrong to toss his name in this at all, but it needs saying. Because we are now in the middle of a national miasma which seems to be saying that all of a sudden this nation has got to make up its mind whether it is going to go to the extreme left or right.

Nothing could be worse for the country than such thinking. What we need to do is to go ahead on the American highway. If this country ever is persuaded by the smart manipulators that our only choice is between the extremes, then indeed will I move over and sit in the pew with those who think that all is lost.

Liberalism It so happens I always have despised Communism and its methods. I have never thought other than if the people of this country knew about the workings of this ideology and knew its leaders, they would be damaged by them. We are in trouble with them now because they, like the Huey Longs, knew about the 35 who just scrape along and went to work on them. They have taken over several unions, including the crews that run the shipping. It means that a very few persons have great power.

But, again, it must be said the only reason they were able to do so was because of the unintelligent attitude of the rest of us. The great drive now is on to make the decent, wholesome quality of liberalism seem to be Communistic, or at best, merely a sort of silly, Pollyanna sort of business having no place in a practical world. Or, that all persons with any liberal thought are whooping after Henry Wallace, and demanding milk for Hottentot tots.

Party The campaigners seek to say that the Democratic Party has been captured by the Communists and the PAC. Nothing could be more false. The PAC's investigation by a congressional committee reveals the PAC to have been kicked around more times than it won. When it did win it had the good sense to join others in support of a candidate who was good at getting votes. Jim Folsom, of Alabama, is an example. We will get nowhere breaking up the Democratic Party, which always has been one of diverse groups—a Joseph's coat party.

Bosses of the big city machines, Republican and Democratic, scrambled for the labor and Negro vote. I have taken a second look and I find that the same bosses are in control. They will ride any vote that comes along, Negro, PAC or radical.

It can't do this country any good to swing back far to the right and resume the Republican concept of the time of Hoover and before of paying attention only to the one person in 36 who is making a decent living. If we do someone is going to take the other 35 and go to work on them. Some will turn to Communism and some will go over to the Hitler line or some other line such as Huey Long was espousing. Before long the country will really be fouled up and we will be in deep trouble.

This country was founded on liberalism. Liberalism believes in the freedom of the individual—not a collectivist state.

Pride We used to take a great pride in the fact. We founded it for opportunity of the individual, for the dignity of the individual life, for religious freedom and speech and living.

It will be a very great failure if we let the smart and shrewd propagandists make us confuse a liberal attitude with Communism or the confusion of Henry Wallace's position.

Certainly there isn't a trace of liberalism to a ton of Communism. But, by the same token, there isn't any in any form of totalitarianism.

McCormick took Huey Long's idea and moved a tea business out of the red into the largest and most successful tea business in the world.

I think we can take the same idea and build the strongest force for democracy and the rights of man ever conceived by the greatest advocates of those rights. It would be a country against which every wave of Communism or totalitarianism in any form would break and fail.

But we won't do it if we allow the campaign of today push us into a hurried, frantic, unnecessary search for substitutes for the way in which we have seen Spain and Hitler's Germany what the choice of an extreme eventually means.

Stick to your liberal guns.

What of Supplies For Home Upkeep?

He came into the office, sat down, at my invitation and announced he wanted to talk about something that was very important. I listened. He had a story to tell, an argument to set forth.

His subject, broadly speaking, was the housing shortage. His special problem was scarcity of materials for the maintenance of present houses in livable condition. His complaint was against bureaucratic government. He laid the trouble at the feet of Government agencies which, he said, had followed policies not, primarily, designed to help the people but, first of all, to maintain the bureaucrats in jobs.

"Suppose the toilet in your bathroom cracks," he said, "even before the end of the war, began accumulating stockpiles of materials which are today held in full warehouses, for some future use which only the bureaucrats know. The citizen who needs them, no matter in how small quantity, can't get them because of a complication of 'priorities.' In other words, there are created scarcities in essential supplies, scarcities which are unnecessary."

That was his idea. I'm just passing it on.

GI Houses "Mind you," he continued, "I'm all for the GI. Should be. Had four boys of my own in the service during the war. Thank God they all came home safely. Two of 'em, by the way, brought English wives home with them. Nice girls, both of them. Good wives. We're fond of them and proud of them."

"But I do think it is unwise to make it so that only new construction, first available for GIs, can get a pane of window glass. How about the older homes that are kept livable? Are we to go with the idea of a window, if unfortunately a pane is broken, just because somebody with a little authority says no one is to get any window glass except builders of new homes? It is not only unfair, it is downright foolish."

"I've spent five days doing nothing but looking for a certain piece of piping and everything I go in I find there is none I can buy, because it is all available only on priority to builders of new GI homes. So my veteran and his wife have to suffer, endanger her health, for a lack of a simple piece of pipe."

"If these bureaucrats are going to be so stupid, they should at least provide a source of supply for such cases."

Poor Business "They say," he went on, "there is a shortage of 2,000,000 housing units. I expect that figure is conservative. But what's the gain if, while they're building 2,000,000 new homes, 2,000,000 of the old ones become unfit to live in because of a few simple supplies they can't get?"

The only thing to do is put in a new one. But you can't buy one. They're all held on priority for new construction. So your house is without bathroom essential and, very soon, it won't be a fit place for folks to occupy. It's silly, by my way of thinking."

"If a window pane breaks in any house, can it fix it. With Scotch tape, if the window frame is intact. But if the frame is smashed too? Well, that doesn't make any difference to the priority boys. I can go cold all winter. That's all."

"An old house becomes unfit to live in. Say a house belonging to someone who is not a GI. So he moves out. He can't get a new house because they're all reserved for GIs. He's homeless. And that old house he had to leave could have been maintained in good condition by expenditure of a few dollars, at the start of the disintegration, if the material had been available, instead of being stacked up in bureaucratic warehouses under silly priority rulings. For want of a nail the shoe was lost and for want of a shoe the foot was lost and you know the rest of that."

"Well, try and find a few 10-penny nails to repair your old house today and you'll find a parallel quickly. Save the old homes, say I, as well as building new ones."

That's about what he said. He may be right. I'm just passing on his ideas. For whatever they're worth.

Cutting 'Em Down

I can never think of the snappy comeback until hours later. The other night at a dinner party we were talking of the manpower shortage. To make conversation, I asked the girl on my right whether she had heard of it. "Heard of it," she cracked. "I'm looking at it."

I tried to think of a topper, but all I managed was, "I'll bet you say that to all the boys."

Home in bed that night, I thought of plenty of answers I might have exploded around her ears. "I don't know whether to kiss you or set a trap for you." "No self-respecting 8-ball would be seen in front of you." "With your tongue and a loaf of bread we could open a delicatessen."

"A head like yours coming out of a manhole would start a soccer game in any neighborhood."

BUT IT WAS too late. I was home in bed and didn't even know Jane the Ripper's phone number. I admit I'm slow on the draw, but the thing that puzzles me after 24 years on the Great Wit Way is that I'm never around when any of the great yockadoodle lines are born. I've entertained and been entertained by some of the legendary quip-flippers—George S. Kaufman, Moss Hart, Ben Hecht, Deems Taylor, Oscar Levant, William Saroyan, Groucho Marx, George M. Cohan, Willie Collier—all the way back to Wilson Mizner. We've dined, played cards and sat around making out gay chatter. It's all bright and amusing, but not more than once a year have I been on the scene when a line worth reprinting was uttered.

Well then, where do the jokes come from? They're made up in bed hours afterwards. They're twisted and pulled and pencilled and papered. They're told and retold, and kept getting better with each telling.

THIS GOES NOT only for the cracks they're repeating tonight at the Stork Club, but for the nifties Euclid told around the library in Alexandria.

I suppose you've heard of the toastmaster who introduced a speaker thus, "Mr. Jones is a remarkable fellow. You have only to put a dinner in his mouth and out comes a speech." Jones, I tell it, ad libbed back, "Our toastmaster is even more remarkable. You have only to put a speech in his mouth and out comes your dinner."

WELL, THAT'S the way Jones told it to Mrs. Jones at breakfast next morning. Ten to one he started his speech, "Ladies and Gentlemen, unaccustomed as I am to this honor, I am pleased to have accepted as having been made off the cuff."

Paul Bourget: "When an American has nothing to do he can always spend a few years trying to discover who his grandfather was."

Mark Twain: "Right, Monsieur. And when all other interests fail a Frenchman, he can always try to find out who his father was."

A friend: "It is very good of you to say such pleasant things of Monsieur X when he always says such nasty things of you."

Voltaire: "Perhaps we are both mistaken."

Young man: "I hope I'm not boring you."

Rochefoucauld: "We may forgive those who bore us—but never those who bore."

JUST BETWEEN us girls, do you believe these are spur-of-the-moment lines, or did Twain, Voltaire and Rochefoucauld write a dozen drafts before they turned the final version over to the publisher?

Well, you might ask, "Who does ad lib funny lines?" The answer is Bob Hope, who, according to last week's "Variety," has 11 writers on his pay roll.

Lunch To Be An Executive Session

The Congressional Restaurant will henceforth be closed to sight-seers.

Never let it be said our Representatives aren't sensitive souls. They just couldn't enjoy their pork chops with groups of meat-hungry taxpayers looking on.

Especially not with elections coming up.

Of course, the House gallery will remain open to the public. You can still see your Congressman sleep if not eat.

But the Nation's Capitol will have lost one of its most famous tourist attractions when the 50-cent conducted tour no longer includes a glimpse of Rep. Rankin with his Gray Plate Special.

Congressmen have had enough of living goldfish lives... henceforth the public trough will be private.

And a shame it is, too. Some of the most spectacular filibusters are conducted with knife and fork.

JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

Constitutional Crisis Foreseen

WASHINGTON—For some time now the Government economists, peering into their befogged crystal balls, have discerned the outlines of a small cloud no bigger than a man's hand. The cloud is the bust to follow the present boom.

Since President Truman's rather pathetic surrender on the meat issue, its outlines have become a little clearer. Previously it was thought vaguely that the cloud might burst some time in 1947. Now, with many qualifications, the economists are talking about "late Winter or early Spring" of 1947. And if prices really get out of hand, say the economists, the cloudburst may be a painfully drenching downpour, although no repetition of 1929 is anticipated for the near future.

Vermiform Appendix These gloomy forecasts are based on the unanimous assumption that price control, which was so unconsciously long a-dying, is now to all intents and purposes dead. One official summed up the general attitude when he remarked, "Harry Truman didn't kill price control when he decontrolled meat; he just buried the unlovely remains." The Decontrol Board, which was established with much fuss and feathers, is now a vermiform appendix among Government agencies. It will no longer have anything to decontrol.

It can be quite safely predicted that dairy products will not be recontrolled. The Board's basic function was originally to act as a high court of appeals to review petitions for price rises denied by Porter. It has not yet reviewed a single petition. And as Porter is now expected to decontrol faster than manufacturers can dream up petitions, the Decontrol Board might just as well submit to the usual fate of appendices and let itself be excised from the body politic.

The only real hope among Washington's dwindling and beleaguered band of stabilizers is to keep some sort of control over rents, construction materials and a few manufactures in really short supply. And even in this respect they are keeping their fingers crossed.

Four Ifs How bad will the inflation be? That, according to the economists, is the central question. For if prices really push up decisively, the inevitable set-down will then be distinctly painful. There are hopeful elements in the situation. Production is beginning to get under way in volume in many sectors of the national economy. If incomes continue up, and the Government's tax program is left untouched, the Government will soon be draining off the market several billion dollars of consumer spending power.

Even with the expected collapse of price controls, the rise might be held to less than 10 percent. The economists think that, in this case, the recession, when it comes, will be no more than a quiet settling down, necessary and not too painful.

But the economists add that a concatenation of four circumstances, all of them highly possible, might knock their gently hopeful forecast into a cocked hat. There are four ifs: (1) If all controls collapse beyond recall in a few weeks. (2) If another strike wave starts. (3) If business, noting the constantly rising prices, decide to hold for a rise, and a feverish inventory boom results. (4) If the Republicans, in control of the House, happily cut the present high tax program to shreds. All of these ifs together (and it will be noted that they are all interdependent) could shove prices through the clouds. The inevitable collapse would then be really painful, if imminent. Add to this the nervousness which exists in the Agriculture Department about a sharp fall in the agricultural export market when the world harvests are in, and you have the makings of a pretty black 1947.

What to Do? What makes the long-term prospect even bleaker is that the whole price control mess has demonstrated with startling clarity the inability of the American Government to govern, except in times of enormous crisis. Any other Government would have stood or fallen on its basic economic policy. But the present administration, its whole economic policy torn to shreds, facing a severe setback at the polls, will be with us for two more years.

Moreover, if the vast majority of political forecasters in Washington are correct, there will be a Republican majority almost certainly in the House, and quite possibly in the Senate, while a well-intentioned but far from forceful Democratic President holds sway in the White House.

This prospect has caused many Republicans, and many conservative businessmen, to rub their hands in anticipatory glee. But if a Republican Congress in these times proves itself actually capable of governing, under a Democratic administration, it will be a political miracle for which there is no precedent in American history. Many astute political observers foresee in the next two years a constitutional crisis of the first order. But short of a constitutional convention, obviously at present wholly impractical, no one seems to have the faintest idea what can really be done about it.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

Backbone

Editor Constitution: I would like to make a few remarks concerning the letter by Mrs. Junior Stephens in the Wednesday issue of The Constitution.

I think it was very snooty in her to talk about the farmers the way she did, for if it wasn't for the farmers she wouldn't have as much to eat as she does and she might remember this is still a free country for the farmers just as much as it is for city folks. Just as many farmers' sons died for freedom as business men's. My husband was a farmer and he gave his life in Normandy, France, for the freedom of his country and I don't know what to think of anyone who would want to put the farmer under bondage. She was speaking of election day. I can remind her that there will be just as many farmers at the polls to vote as city people. She may call the farmers ignorant; but they still have sense enough to be the backbone of our nation.

MRS. BONNIE K. SEWELL, Adamsville, Ga.

City (?) Folks

Editor Constitution: Yes, it would be very nice for "city folks" of Liburn and other cities if the "ignorant hayseeds" would sell every meat animal they own for about one-half the cost of raising it. Too bad farmers must buy high-cost feed for these animals, have them inoculated, (or let them die of disease) and carry them miles to market. It would be much better for "city folks" and farmers, too, if these animals just grew up to be nice pieces of pork and beef without having to be fed, housed, and attended in any way. But nature decided upon the course of animated life—not we human beings.

Has Mrs. Stephens heard that no one likes to be forced to do anything? And was it not the form of government that decided farmers should be told exactly what to do? Subsidies now to be paid back by farmers' future generations show a trace of Communism in the lady's thoughts!

As to farmers rearing large families, there are many exceptions. You see, Mrs. Stephens, I'm an only child; however, know some families whose children number 10, 12 and 15. But I suppose five or six children seem like many to people who think on a small scale.

Would anyone please inform me of the population of Liburn, Ga. ELIZABETH MASSEY, Rupert, Georgia.

Debt to Farmer

Editor Constitution: In your paper of October 2 you printed a letter written by Mrs. Junior Stephens about the farmers of America. As a rule farmers are too well-mannered to pay any attention to such remarks, but after reading Mrs. Stephens' letter I feel obliged to say my bit in behalf of the farmers.

Evidently Mrs. Stephens hasn't read her history or her Bible very well. In history she will find that many of our greatest and most learned men were farmers, or came from farm families. They have stood up for their rights heretofore and will always do so. If the city people want more meat let them get out in the country and raise it like we are doing. Mrs. Stephens don't know when she's well off. If the country people had to buy all the meat and land they use there would be much less for the city people. If they knew that the Government would take over their meat animals they would simply quit raising meat, then where would the meat proposition be? Perhaps there are many who haven't stopped to think that every bite they eat comes from somebody's farm, and that if the farmers of America should raise only enough for their own tables for one year, the city dwellers would be like "The King With the Golden Touch." Money will not satisfy the pains of hunger when there is no food to buy. (Ask the people of Europe.) The farmer feeds the nation and this is still America—so far no Hitler has the reins. We are still a free country with the right to protect our own, for which we should reverently thank God.

MRS. JOSIE ALLEN, Tallapoosa.

Placing the Blame

Editor Constitution: We, white residents of Western Heights, resent and call lie to the letter you published in your letters to the editor section of Oct. 3, signed by M. K. Echols. In the first place, to set the record straight, we are not low whites; there has been no turmoil in our neighborhood; ours is not a potential Negro community and never will be, for we intend to keep it white. In the second place, we can find no such individual as mentioned above and we doubt the existence of such a person.

Our community is thoroughly organized and through this organization we have stopped the residence of the Negro into our residential section. Certain people, unworthy of their white heritage, object to our efforts because they can no longer make fat profits in real estate. We place the blame for the trouble we had squarely on their shoulders.

One more thing, we wish to thank the Columbians for taking up our fight when the situation looked so hopeless and for showing us how to win. They have taught us one valuable lesson: the white people of a community can have anything they want, when they are organized.

This letter was signed by 163 residents of Western Heights.

HAROLD MARTIN

Where Every Prospect Pleases--

A friend of mine, when the world is too much with him, is fond of saying, with an air of despairing finality: "We are, I fear, a nation of jerks." There have been times when I have agreed with him. There have been other times, when, mellowed by some manifestation of the innate nobility of the human spirit, I have felt that he was being a little severe. I felt that he should modify that to the extent that he should say that we are only sometimes a nation of jerks.

I thought about his despairing cry the other day while speaking to a man whose task in life it is to develop and to care for that great highway down the backbone of the Blue Ridge known as the Blue Ridge Parkway. It begins in Virginia and, when finished, will follow the skyline of the Blue Ridge all the way to the heart of the great Smokies. It was not built as a thoroughfare for people in a hurry. It was built as a pleasure road, a road which a man could ride with the top of his car scraping the ceiling of the sky, looking down from each side upon the most magnificent mountain scenery this side of the Rockies. There are no billboards upon it, no filling stations, no juke boxes. The Government owns the right-of-way and their purpose has been to give to the people one of the few routes over which man travels which he cannot cheapen or sully. There are look-out points where he can leave the road to pick up a view of mountain vistas of such splendid serenity the mind cannot grasp their beauty and their mood without first putting aside all feeling of urgency, of passing time. It is one of the most gracious gifts a nation ever gave its people for their enjoyment.

Squawkers But do they enjoy it? Well, some of them do. Most, perhaps, but there are those whose my friend would call jerks. They have a squawk to make. They do not like the fact that in those places where the road runs across a wide plateau the Government has obtained a thousand-foot right-of-way on which no commercial stands can be set up. They see the traffic on the parkway and they wish, of course, to fatten on this traffic. They want to build there their juke joints and their Bar-B-Q stands; their filling stations hideous with gaudy signs; their tourist courts. They do not wish the Government to tell them that what they build must be in keeping with the background, with the vast panorama of unspoiled nature. They want to get in there now, with their Jerry-built construction and their shouting signs.

They have some basis, strangely, from the travelers upon the road. The ancestors of these travelers might have braved a wilderness with a rifle and an ax. But they fear to set out upon a journey where they do not have the assurance that a filling station will be lurking around the next curve, a soft drink stand tucked in every flat place, and lodging for the night wherever a man might feel the need of rest. The fiber of the race, when it comes to going on a journey, has deteriorated.

Their argument is one the Government itself is answering as rapidly as possible. There are still great gaps of undeveloped road and, until these are finished, the construction of the service establishments, the filling stations, the occasional garage, the places to sleep or camp, have been put by. They are coming as soon as circumstances permit, at intervals of about 60 miles. But they aren't there yet, and the timorous, as a result, are afraid to venture upon the road.

But the parks people are still adamant against those establishments setting up on Parkway right-of-way which would not be in keeping with their ideas of what will caress the eye, and augment, not violate, the natural beauty of the mountain background.

Resentment And even more vigorous protest than has come from either of the above groups has come from the small towns near the Parkway. The Parkway passes through bear country and deer country and in each town there is an organization of sportsmen who wish to hunt the bear and the deer without impediment. They strongly resent the rule which says they cannot carry a dead bear or a dead deer along the Parkway. The Government reasoning is simple. The grassy right-of-way along the Parkway is a wonderful grazing ground for deer. They come up out of the deep woods and munch the grass and sometimes the passing motorist can see them standing in staid and stately tableaux, watching him from the roadside. They seem to know that they are protected and this sense of security has made them bold. It is an easy matter to drive along the Parkway, shoot a deer, put it in the car and be gone with it. Thus the possession of game in a car on the Parkway, to Parks Service Rangers is prima facie evidence that the deer was killed upon the highway. Their best protection is to forbid the carrying of game on the route.

The protest against this law ranges from sweet reasonableness to angry vituperation against bull-headed bureaucrats. The reasonable arguments come from old hunters who say that the Parkway, sometimes for miles, follows old roads they used when they hunted adjoining areas in past years. Now the old trails are closed and thus big areas of hunting country are isolated. The angry ones merely hate the thought of packing a 200-pound deer of a 400-pound bear over rocks and through laurel slicks and tangled rhododendron to a woods road that may wind for miles before it hits a highway, when just above them, on the ridge, is the broad strip of the Parkway.

They are also angry because the Parkway people want the look-out points kept open for the casual passer-by who wants to stop to view the scenery. They wish to park their cars at these points and walk to the bear and deer country. They also are irked because the Parks Service people consider a pickup truck loaded with bear dogs to be a commercial vehicle. (All commercial vehicles are barred from the Parkway.) They point out, with much justification, that hauling dogs of any kind, especially bear dogs, in a closed car is an experience to cause the average human being considerable olfactory distress.

Headaches The Government, trying to keep everybody happy, is hearing their protests and making long reports on their arguments to Washington, where something, eventually, may be done to mollify them.

But the situation now is causing the Parkway superintendent much unhappiness. He is off his feed and he gazes from his window at the glorious scenery of the Blue Ridge with a dull, almost resentful eye.

I quoted my friend's statement about us being a nation of jerks, never satisfied, never pleased. He nodded.

"It's true," he said. "I learned it long ago, but the thing that never fails to surprise me is, that here in the heart of this wilderness, I run into so many of them."

CELESTINE SIBLEY

Joe Reddy, Californian, Host Par Excellence

A word or two more about Hollywood and then we'll be willing to tie that fabulous trip up with blue ribbons and store it away with baby shoes, the curls that were cropped off at Jimmy's first haircut, and such other moth-eaten mementos as we'll have to cheer our old age.

Joe Reddy, a rotund, red-faced Irishman, who cursed us mildly, entertained us lavishly and amused us mightily, is the reason we must go back to the subject of Hollywood. As Walt Disney's press agent it was Joe's job to entertain the visiting press—and it was no small assignment either, Joe let us know.

The night we landed, blinking and bedazzled, in the bright lights that were Burbank, Joe was there to meet us, calling us "young guys," herding us into a shining limousine, hauling us to the hotel and plying us with steaks and other provender. The night we took off Joe was there, a multi-colored curtain in his lapel, his fork at a theatrical tilt, his breath fragrant with the two appetizers he allowed himself per diem. ("Me father always said one drink was too much for an Irishman and a 100 drinks were not enough.")

AT THAT MOMENT our affection for Joe overwhelmed us. The four members of the party warming his hand, thanked him warmly and then said, as one man, "You know, Joe, you've been so good to us we've decided we might not go back to Atlanta after all."

"Jeez, you don't—you can't..." spluttered Joe and sprawled weakly on the floor in an agonized-looking faint as we've ever witnessed on any stage. It took the four of us and three RKO press agents to revive him.

The rest of the evening Joe was a little nervous about us. He produced our tickets, checked our baggage, cheerfully paid the excess (caused by that really too cheap potpourri picked up on Sunday's visit to Tijuana) and kept muttering uncertainly: "Jeez, youse guys kidding about staying?"

AND WE WERE. But for homes and children and jobs and a funny sort of hankering to see soil that was decently red again, we might have stayed because Joe showed us California at its handsome opulent best.

Born in New York City's Hell's Kitchen and bred in the city room of newspapers, Joe has lived life at a rip-roaring pace. He covered the sinking of the Titanic, he spent 20 years as press agent and confidante to one of Hollywood's first citizens, Harold Lloyd.

WHEN HE FOUND that we had succumbed wholeheartedly to the easy charm of his host, Joe, he applied himself diligently to seeing that we likewise admired California. The four tickets Disney had secured for himself on the 50-yard line at the Ohio State-Southern Cal. game were suddenly ours.

"But look, Joe, why don't these funny bare hills erode and wash away?" we demanded.

"BECAUSE," said Joe grandly, "they are held together by flowers. In season, that is."

For our benefit Joe cultivated a Southern accent, flinging "youse-all" into every conversational gap. He kept us informed on what time it was in Georgia and, laboring under a terrible misapprehension, he lustily sang, "Marching Through Georgia."

Joe was a great host and perhaps his final virtue was that he didn't let us miss that plane home.

Where Is The Courage?

DENVER—There comes a time, as a reporter and a citizen, you get so filled up that you have to speak out for what it may be worth.

Traveling for three weeks across the country watching and listening, has left the disturbing impression with this reporter that we, as a people, are about to lose our way in a frantic search for quick and present material gains.

The revolution is over. The counter-revolution is on. Neither term is used in the literal or sinister sense, but as symbols.

BY THE REVOLUTION is meant a spirit of orderly change that was moving among us, an adjustment to meet the demands of our modern world, both at home and abroad. It expressed a fine appreciation of the value of a human being as such, and resulted in the taking of measures designed to give every citizen and his family a better opportunity to enjoy the good life that could be made here, not only in mere material things but in the spiritual and cultural benefits that a well-ordered economy permits.

It matters not that it was energized by a man by the name of Roosevelt; not that it was called, in our typically American way, the New Deal. Those were merely the instruments. It was something that was bound to rise from the suffering that human being endured in our greatest depression, and it would have come, no matter who the man, nor by what we called it.

THIS PROCESS OF adjustment was checked abruptly when our way of life was threatened from outside. But there is no doubt that the release of the average man from certain bondage in our economy, so that he had become a more free and self-reliant individual, contributed to the courage that took us to victory in our greatest war. To fight to preserve democracy meant something, because democracy was coming to mean something.

From the dross of war, from the suffering, the sacrifice, it seemed that something fine again was about to emerge.

But we appear to be losing it. The counter-revolution is on in full swing.

COUNTER-REVOLUTION feeds and thrives on materialism and prejudice. So today, everywhere you go there is the cry of "Meat, meat!" Meat for the belly has become the symbol of a craving for everything material. It is a selfish, cynical cry in a land of plenty, for everywhere there is plenty. Instead of that, to hear the complaining, you would think this was a land of starvation and misery.

In an election in which there are so many more important things at stake, whatever your views, it became the major issue until a frightened and a harried President had to act so that the self-deluding hysteria could be assuaged.

It was, of course, a fake issue, created by clever propaganda of the counter-revolutionary forces of reaction. It was a hold-up. For, now that the deed is done, now that the forces of greed have been compromised with, it does not mean meat for everybody at all. Millions caught in the squeeze of inflation still won't be able to get it, and from the restaurants and dining rooms of those who can, there will be taken away plates with enough left to feed millions who are starving in other parts of the world.

AS I HAVE TRAVELED about, my mind has gone back so often to what I saw in Europe only a year and a half ago—ruined and ravaged cities, desolate hungry people, long lines waiting for bread. So many of us saw that. My impression undoubtedly was the more graphic, for I got a quick, hurried glimpse, so that I did not become involved in it, and it will never leave me. From that nightmarish memory I travel through a land of peace and plenty, with its cities intact, its people at work and prosperous, and hear the cry:

"Meat, meat, meat!" and, fattening ourselves, we build up our hates. Everywhere I have traveled the talk is all of Russia, and vicious voices are whispering to stir up hate. If we all could go the number of miles I have been in this country, and we could go the same number of miles among the people of Russia, and see how they are living in a country yet ghastly from the devastation, perhaps we might stop and consider ourselves. And the cry of "Communism" goes through the land to impede every good cause. It is a strange and terrifying phobia. It is being used by the forces of counter-revolutionary reaction, cleverly, skillfully—until, as one high-placed political leader remarked:

"EVEN THE LIBERAL forces have become so frightened that they are beginning to look under the bed."

"There are Communists among us. Their work is nefarious. But it must be recognized for what it is. They must be met on their own grounds. Their machinations must be combated. They are really so few. Surely we are not going to let a few connivers deter us from our own steady way of progress. Oh, that there were a voice to save us and tell us what cowards we have suddenly become! We, in the richest land in the world, with the finest and freest political system, cringe and crawl before a few little plotters and allow them to confuse us, and allow those who use them for that purpose, to confuse us."

Where is the courage that conquered a depression and won a war?

KNOXVILLE—"Twenty-one-year-old Jimmy Hope, unemployed, seeks sixth wife."—News item.

Sometimes we think this world of ours is filled with selfish greed. That all the rare and fairest flowers have died and gone to seed.

That what we thought we had attained, through each succeeding year, was never thoroughly ingrained and nothing but veneer.

But looking closer at affairs we see some rays of hope. We now use the electric chairs where once we used the rope. The practice of polygamy no longer is in style. And if you're caught at bigamy they send you up a while.

Thus, we are heartened as we see our cultural advance. And note there always seems to be someone to take a chance—Some noble men are always found who will stick out their necks And spread their surplus love around to help the weaker sex.

And for eternal halls of fame we nominate these men. Who, being burned, go find some flame to singe them once again.

4 Sped To Safety From Ire of Mob

MT. PLEASANT, Tenn., Oct. 17—Two Negroes were started for Nashville in custody of Maury County officers late Thursday after a crowd of white men described by Police Chief Gordon Poore as "a mob" gathered about the City Hall during questioning of the Negroes about an incident involving themselves and a white man.

The Negroes first were removed to Columbia, Maury County seat, 12 miles from Mt. Pleasant, where Maury County Sheriff Flo Fleming took charge of them and started for Nashville.

Columbia itself was the scene of a racial clash last Feb. 25, but Editor John W. Finney of the Columbia Daily Herald said it remained quiet during the temporary stop of the Negroes there this afternoon.

"It's a mob and they want the Negroes," Police Chief Poore said here as the crowd began clustering in midafternoon about the City Hall, in which the city jail is located.

The assemblage—between 50 and 75 men—began dissolving an hour later when it was announced the Negroes had been taken out of town.

CALL IT INSULT

Reds Blast World Press On Hangings

BERLIN, Oct. 17—(P)—The Russian-controlled newspaper Night Express Thursday denounced the "sentimental section of the world press which reported those pious last words" of the Nazi war criminals on the gallows at Nuremberg.

The paper especially criticized reports which said the Nazis went to their deaths bravely and lamented publication of such farewells as "God Bless Germany."

It called these words an "insult to a moral intellect" and said a cable arrived at Nuremberg just from the United States Thursday offering $1,000 for the ropes which hanged the 10 Nazi war criminals. The cable was signed "Howard Goldin, Columbia Hotel, Columbia, South Carolina."

It was dangerous to make them public because they "contribute to the building of a new myth for a fourth Reich."

Russian-censored papers here did not print any of the Nazis' deathhouse utterances. "It took six bloody years of war to destroy the myth of the third Reich," the paper said. "And now a section of the world press is at work trying to erect the myth for a fourth Reich."

"Hour by hour the last days of the war criminals at Nuremberg were recorded in the world press—fearful farewells with their families, etc."

"The danger of these sentimental reports lies in their effect on the people, especially the German people. When people read in what 'manly fashion' the condemned men went to their deaths, and how their last words on the gallows dealt only with piety and good wishes for Germany—well, then the new myth is complete."

"Such words are an insult to a moral intellect. The world convicted these men as criminals. What they said in the shadow of the gallows is a new myth for a fourth Reich."

"The Chief wrote that the taxi company 'continually ignored warnings not to park in a space reserved for bus stops, and wouldn't the Commission do something about it, inasmuch as it granted the company a certificate to operate?'"

PSC Chairman Gordon Persons replied No, thanks, that local law enforcement was not his business. He wouldn't say what town it was.

Executioner Duties Of Mate Surprises Wife

WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 17—(P)—Mrs. Hazel Marie Woods, wife of M/Sgt. John C. Woods, executioner of the 10 Nazi leaders at Nuremberg Wednesday, Thursday said that news of her husband's duties came to her "as a complete surprise."

"He never told me that he was doing that type of work," Mrs. Woods said. "He didn't mention any hangings and the first I knew of it was when I saw his picture in the papers."

Asked what she thought of his record of hanging an estimated 323 Germans, Mrs. Woods, on the verge of tears, said "that is his job. He received his orders from higher command."

Mrs. Woods said she first learned her husband was the executioner when she saw his picture in the papers and immediately notified an Army recruiting office here about her relationship.

She said they have been married 14 years and that they have no children. She added he was drafted into the Army in August, 1942, and has been overseas for approximately three years.

He was stationed in England with the Engineers for a while and took part in the invasion of the continent. He was born in Wichita and went through the first two years of high school before quitting school to go into construction work.

Woods also worked for the Boeing Aircraft Company here as a tool and die man in March, 1942.

Plane Crashes;
10 Passengers,
Crew of 3 Die

LARAMIE, Wyo., Oct. 17—(AP)—A chartered eastbound passenger plane crashed Wednesday, killing all 10 passengers and the crew of three during a heavy snowstorm on the level plains three miles west of Laramie.

The plane, identified by Civil Aeronautics Administration spokesman as a two-engine craft operated by the National Air Transport Service, was en route from Oakland, Cal., to Chicago, and was to have stopped at Cheyenne for refueling and a change of crew, the CAA said. No stop was scheduled here.

The Acting Coroner of Albany County said the twin-engine craft was demolished when it plummeted to a level field just north of the airport about 1 a. m. (MST). Bodies and wreckage were strewn over 300 square yards.

The dead: R. J. Pettigrew, Elizabeth, N. J.; R. A. Gregor, Somerville, Mass.; J. W. Trogon, Spartanburg, S. C.; Steven A. Smith, Springfield, Ill.; A. Gunza, East Paterson, N. J.; Ray A. IN AMERICAN WEEKLY:

Millikan Ridicules Notion Of Science-Religion War

Robert A. Millikan, Nobel Prize winner and cosmic ray pioneer, is actually best for society as a whole, must be determined by science; in other words, this is a question of knowledge or intelligence, rather than of conscience.

"I am thus using the two words conscience and knowledge as related to the words religion and science," he continued.

Millikan's remarks are featured in this Sunday's issue of The American Weekly. Albert Einstein participated in last week's discussion.

OTHER CONTRIBUTORS

Other contributors are Arthur H. Compton, Nobel Laureate and chairman of the National Conference of Christians and Jews; Victory Francis Hess, Fordham University Professor of Physics who received the Nobel Prize for discovery of cosmic rays; Dr. William S. G. Swann, Director of the Bartol Research Foundation of Franklin Institute; Prof. Kirtley

F. Mather, head of the Geology Department, Harvard University, and Prof. Roger J. Williams, Director Biochemical Institute of University of Texas.

Their views will be published in successive issues of The American Weekly, distributed each week with the Sunday Constitution.

INTELLIGENT DIRECTION

"The two are necessarily intimately related," Millikan writes, "for the primary idea in religion lies in the single word 'Ought'—the sense of duty being under all religion while what is duty, that

War-Tired Reds See Peace Hope in Budget Cut

MOSCOW, Oct. 17—(AP)—Reduction of 56,031,000,000 rubles ($10,571,000,000) in Soviet defense expenditures, as proposed to the Supreme Soviet in the new budget, has been heartily received by the Russian citizen who hopes it means many still to the armed forces will be returning home.

There are indications that the Soviet Union would like to return more men to peacetime pursuits and help the new five-year plan.

(Russia is estimated to have from 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 men under arms.)

There also are signs the government would enter into discussion of wholesale demobilization and disarmament if sure other great powers would do the same.

Russia is anxious to replenish the heavy losses in manpower and production she suffered in the war.

The new budget also proposes to spend 4,000,000,000 rubles ($754,800,000) in allowances for mothers next year, as compared with 2,100,000,000 rubles last year, as an incentive to larger families. The Soviet Union hopes for a population of more than 200,000,000 in the next few years. The population was 170,500,000 in the 1939 census.

Budget-Wise, Satisfying Entrees Team Meat With Artful Seasonings

By SALLY SAVER

Whether there's meat in the market or not, the average housewife must shop and plan her meals with an eagle eye on the budget. A small amount of meat will combine with rice, potatoes, macaroni or spaghetti to make more economical servings. A roasted chicken, usually somewhat less per pound than those of frying size, can be served with dressing for the first meal, the remaining meat cut from the bones and made into chop suey or chow mein for another meal. Canned fish flakes in rather good supply on the grocer's shelf can be made into deviled sea food, baked in individual casseroles, better still in sea shells, if you have them, and confidently served to substitute for deviled crab. But here are specific directions for making a little meat go a long way, and for other good main dishes, guaranteed to satisfy appetites whetted by cooler weather.

- 4 tablespoons fat
- 1 1/2 cup onion, chopped
- 2 cloves garlic
- 1 No. 2 1/2 can or 3 1/2 cups tomatoes
- 1 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1 1/2 teaspoon tabasco sauce
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 whole clove
- 1 peppercorn
- 2 tablespoons fat
- 1 1/2 pound ground beef
- 2 tablespoons tomato paste
- 1 4-oz. can (3 1/4 cup) sliced mushrooms and liquid

Melt four tablespoons fat in heavy frying pan. Add onion and garlic and cook gently until soft but not brown. Remove garlic and add tomatoes, nutmeg, tabasco, salt, bay leaf, clove and peppercorn. Simmer one hour. Remove bay leaf and peppercorn. Meanwhile in another pan melt two tablespoons fat and in it saute the meat until lightly browned. Add meat to the sauce. Cover and simmer until sauce thickens. Just before serving add the tomato paste and the mushrooms. Heat thoroughly and serve in a rice, potato or spaghetti ring.

If using uncooked meat, cut in small pieces and fry in fat until brown. If using cooked chicken saute gently in the fat, but brown only lightly. Add flour and blend well. Add hot water, mix well and simmer until meat is done. Add onions and celery and cook about 10 minutes longer. Add molasses, bean sprouts, and soy sauce. Stir to blend, heat thoroughly and serve with fried noodles, (canned) or over boiled rice.

DEVILED SEA FOOD

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon paprika
- 2 cups rich milk
- 2 eggs
- 1 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon grated onion
- 1 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 2 cups flaked fish or other cooked sea food
- 1 cup buttered crumbs

Melt butter, add flour, salt and paprika. Stir to a smooth paste. Add milk gradually, cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Remove from heat and add slightly beaten eggs, lemon juice, onion, Worcestershire, mustard and sea food. Fold half of buttered crumbs into mixture and pour into individual casseroles or shells. Sprinkle remaining crumbs over top and bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees, 20 minutes. Serve hot. Spicy cole slaw is a tasty accompaniment.

WINE SERVICE

Hunting season is here again and those who have hunters in the family or friends who are marksmen, may like to know the correct wine to serve with a game dinner. The established wine tradition rules serving a red wine such as burgundy, claret, or port with dark meats and a white wine such as sauterne or rhine wine with light meats. As most game falls in the dark meat classification, a good red wine is a popular choice at the hunter's table. Fresh pears in port wine, really a very simple dessert, seems important and adds a festive touch to any Fall meal.

PEARS IN PORT WINE

- 6 fresh pear halves (peeled and cored)
 - 1/2 cup brown sugar
 - 2 cups port wine
- Lacking brown sugar, mix 1 1/4 cup dark syrup and 1 1/4 cup white sugar and proceed as for brown sugar. Stew pears gently in sugar and wine until tender. Chill in refrigerator. Serve cold. Serves 6.

Only one-half pound of ground beef is used in the zestful sauce served in this rice ring. Potatoes or spaghetti may be used for the ring. Cook and season rice or mashed potatoes, pack well into a greased mold and set mold in hot water until serving time.

ELIZABETH WOODWARD SAYS:

You Used To Be His Girl, But That Was Last Year

Being crazy about Buddy just sneaked up on you. He was new in your school and everybody that got acquainted with him told you he was a brain. You don't go out for wizards much... so you didn't even bat an eye in his direction. And great was your surprise to find Buddy on your heels at the teen club dance. He didn't throw his brains around... you found out... he was nice. And that's how it started.

The gang you go with, unlike most, doesn't go steady. The boys like to get around... and they don't like it when girls get themselves tied up and aren't free to percolate. But you found yourself accepting dates only with Buddy. He was the only boy you wanted to see. The others ganged up on you and did their best to unshackle you. They teased you... they talked about Buddy. They tried all their tricks to break you up. But nothing worked except Summer vacation. Buddy went away.

IT'S ALL OVER

You weren't going to sit on your front porch alone all Summer... so you went out with other boys. And you had fun, surprisingly enough. There was lots to be said for percolating. Your weeks had spice and variety. It was too hot to care too violently about anybody. You got swell letters from Buddy. And the days flew.

When school started again, Buddy was back... but he didn't find you where he'd left you. You'd both changed. Time and distance had seen to that. You liked going out with the other boys, so you kept right on going. And Buddy didn't like it too much. You'd never really talked about going steady... it had just been sort of understood. But he found out that you'd skittered out from under. So he started dating other girls. And Buddy didn't belong to you any more.

He knows where you live, but he doesn't call you at all. He goes to the dances, but he doesn't dance with you. You sent him a birthday card and he never even thanked you. He does talk to you... but he's always in a tearing hurry and has to run. You can't pin Buddy down any more. And it's tearing you apart.

ON WITH THE NEW

Of course Buddy remembers. He can't blot out his past... any more than you can. But all of that apparently doesn't matter to Buddy any more. You were what happened to him last year. You're the girl he went with all the Spring of '46. And, gee, but you were swell.

But here's now. The Winter of '46 is coming. And there will be a new love to mark the date. You were close to Buddy... but you can be that close to some other boy. Buddy can share secrets with some other girl.

You had great fun with Buddy while it lasted. You didn't have a grand spat to leave an ugly spot in your memory. Buddy was nice. Buddy is nice. But don't hanker for Buddy any longer. And don't hate him for not hankering for you. You may not have Buddy all to yourself again... but you can have Buddy for a friend always.

POWDER YOUR NOSE, GALS!

Scouts Looking for Best-Looking Newspaperwoman

By VIRGINIA MacPHERSON

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 17 (UP)—If your local news coverage seems a little vague this week, readers, blame it on the movie press agents. They are holding a contest to find the most glamorous newspaperwoman in the country. And all of a sudden—in city rooms from New York to Los Angeles—lady reporters are scurrying for powder and paint.

At least, that's what the press agents hope they're doing. How else are they going to crown some female newshawk "the most magnificent doll among American newspaperwomen?"

There's more. This "magnificent doll" will then attend the premiere of Skirball-Manning's movie, "Magnificent Doll," which stars Ginger Rogers—and which has nothing at all to do with the newspaper business.

In their quest for publicity the press agents are gallantly ignoring the tradition that most dames in the newspaper game are honestly old battleaxes. They're hoping to turn up a flesh-and-blood Brenda Starr somewhere along the line.

We dunno. A friend of ours says that when he sees a picture of the star gal reporter interviewing the hatchet murderer he can't tell who is interviewing whom. We think he's wrong. But we could be prejudiced.

For instance, one of the earlier entries is Helen Brush, a red-headed photog on the Los Angeles Daily News. It's true she was the Pacific Coast roller skating champion before she started taking pictures. And it's also true that she once knocked down a truck driver who had been intending to knock down Mr. Brush, also a photographer. Nevertheless, she's just about as gorgeous a red-head as we know.

Shelia Grahame, Hollywood columnist who's never swung at anybody—except in print—is also in the running. She used to be in musical comedies in England before she decided Hollywood was funnier.

The old torchy Blaine films didn't do much to glamorize sob sisters, either. In those days, Glenda Farrell knocked down anybody who got in her way and did everything but chew on a cigar while she got her news.

Our press agent pals don't hold with those old-fashioned versions. And once they'd cooked up their "Magnificent Doll" scheme, they played it smart.

They invited the local chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, national newspaperwomen's sorority, to sponsor their contest. You can bet a year's subscription to your favorite newspaper those gals didn't hesitate.

First on the list of prizes is a silver-plated portable typewriter. Next comes a flying trip to either Hollywood or New York—take your pick, "Magnificent Doll."

In the city of her choice she'll attend the premiere of "Magnificent Doll" as the guest of Ginger Rogers. Afterwards, the winner will be wine and dined in the city's glossier night spots.

Sally Moore, National President of Theta Sigma Phi, says a jury of Los Angeles and Hollywood artists will pick the winner from pictures mailed to Miss Moore in Los Angeles before Nov. 10. "Entrants must be actively engaged in newspaper work and must have had two year's experience on a newspaper," Miss Moore explained. "And they have to be nominated by a staff member on the paper they're working for now."

Clare Tree Major Plays To Benefit Rabun Gap School

Thirteen students who will graduate the Rabun Gap-Nacoochee School next year will be permitted to attend college if the Rabun Gap-Nacoochee Club accomplishes its goal of raising the funds for this purpose. Toward this end, the Club will sponsor a series of Clare Tree Major plays and a ballet, the series to open with the presentation of "Under the Lilacs" on Saturday, Oct. 26, at the Erlanger Theater.

Tickets are now on sale for the series from Mrs. A. Perryman Little, Ticket Chairman, and Mrs. Adna North, Co-chairman; Iris Lee, at Davidson's; Penelope Pen, at Rich's, or from any member of the Rabun Gap Club.

Other plays in the series are "Hans Brinker," on Nov. 30; "Snow White" on Jan. 4, and "Daniel Boone" on Feb. 1.

At present there are nine students attending college, who could never have had this advantage except for the aid of funds raised by the Club. Mrs. Hicks Lanier is President of the Club, and her corps of officers includes Messdames Alan Tully, William Barrett, Ralph Paris, Guy Hunter and Hugh Fraser.

General chairman for the plays is Mrs. Scott Tarplee. Mrs. Ben Milner is Usher Chairman; Mrs. Edgar Cherry is Production Chairman, and Mrs. Richard Reinhardt, is in charge of publicity.

SALLY FORTH Says:

Much to the delight of a host of friends, Dave and Lillian Roberts Deakins arrived in Atlanta last week for future residence after an absence of over a year. Ever since their marriage, Dave and Lillian have been living in Inglewood, Cal., but they both became so homesick for the sight of Peachtree that Dave decided to give up his position in California. And on Sept. 14 they headed for home!

Although Dave and Lillian did yearn constantly for Dixieland, frequent jaunts to near-by Los Angeles made their stay on the West Coast a most delightful one, and running into Atlantans every now and then kept them in close touch with the goings-on back home. Bill and Helen Randall Shreve were stationed at Long Beach with the Navy, and when the foursome got together, as they often did, it was just like "old home week." Among others Lillian and Dave also saw a great deal of Allen Alexander, who is connected with the Coca-Cola Company in California.

Lillian and Dave traveled to Atlanta via the airways and the railways, and en route they spent two weeks in North Platte, Neb., where they visited the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Deakins. They also spent several days in Chicago, where they saw Bill and Tina Ransom Louis practically every night. Lillian and Tina have been the closest of friends since childhood days, and Lillian reports that Tina, aside from her housekeeping duties, now has a very impressive-sounding job with the Encyclopedia Britannica, no less!

Lillian and Dave have joined the thousands of other house hunters, and if their plans work out they expect to settle down in Atlanta, or at least near by.

ELABORATE BREAKFAST FOR GLANCYS
The Hull-Brandon breakfast which will take place on Oct. 26 at the Piedmont Driving Club, honoring Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Glancy,

Dave and Lillian Deakins Return To Reside in Atlanta

former residents of Detroit, promises to be one of the most elaborate and beautiful social affairs of the Autumn season.

From the balcony in the club will pour the musical strains of the orchestra. Four mammoth tables will grace the ballroom where the guests will assemble, one holding an artistic arrangement of Spring blossoms, a second representing Summer, another decorated in quantities of Autumn flowers and foliage, and the fourth depicting Winter.

A trio of prominent visitors will arrive the day before the party. Mr. and Mrs. Pierpont Wood, of Jamestown, Wis., will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Glancy for the weekend, and A. R. Glancy, Jr., of Grosse Pointe, Mich., will visit his sister and brother, Louise and Inman Brandon, for several days. The evening of their arrival, Nora and Dick Hull will entertain at a party at their home on Chatham Road in celebration of Mrs. Glancy's birthday and as a welcoming gesture to the visitors, who will depart the following Monday.

SARA MOORE HONORED
Art circles will be interested in the announcement that Sara Moore, a gifted young artist from Decatur, has been appointed as State Chairman for American Art Week, which is scheduled for next month under the sponsorship of the American Artists Professional League. Sara's appointment came from Lila Moore Keen, of Dublin, well-known artist and director of the American Artists Professional League for Georgia.

It was under Lila's leadership that Georgia received the blue ribbon of honorable mention for Art Week activities in 1944, and a second national prize for outstanding achievement in 1945. Her camellia paintings have received wide praise, and her talent in floral painting has made her one of the authorities on the subject.

Miss Vesser is the daughter of Mrs. Irene Vesser, of Knoxville. Mr. Herzberg is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Herzberg. His only brother, Morris M. Herzberg, will be best man. Ushers will be James Foster and Jack Baumgras.

After a wedding trip the couple will reside in Atlanta.

U. S. Jails 5 In Louisiana Lynching Case

MINDEN, La., Oct. 17.—(AP)—United States Marshals Thursday arrested five men on Federal Grand Jury indictments charging Civil Rights violations in connection with the lynching of one Negro and an assault upon a second here on Aug. 8.

Arrested were two Webster Parish deputy sheriffs and three Cotton Valley, La., oil field workers. A sixth man was indicted, but his name was withheld by Federal authorities pending his arrest.

The indictments were the outgrowth of the mob slaying of John C. Jones, 28-year-old Negro war veteran, and the beating of Albert Harris, 17.

The case was investigated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and evidence presented to the Federal Grand Jury at Monroe earlier this week.

Arrested today and booked in the U. S. Marshal's Office were: Oscar Henry Haynes, Jr., 25, son of Sheriff O. H. Haynes, of Webster Parish; Charles M. Edwards, Spring Hill, a deputy; Samuel Clinton Maddry, Sr., 53; Willie Drayton Perkins, 42, and Harry Edward Perry, 36.

All five were arraigned before Federal Commissioner A. W. Bullock and released on $500 bonds. The indictments against the men were returned early Wednesday night at Monroe but were held secret until the men were placed under arrest.

MOB AT JAIL
The Federal Grand Jury started hearing evidence in the case Monday morning a few hours before Atty. Gen. Tom Clark announced in Washington that his office was investigating.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Lamar Caudle, head of the Justice Department's criminal division, in a Washington statement summarized the mob violence incident thus: "A mob of a dozen or more men came in automobiles during the night and seized Jones and Harris, two young Negroes in the jail yard of the Webster Parish Jail, as they were being released by a jail officer. The victims battled and screamed as the mob whisked them away. The body of Jones was later found in a wooded area near Minden. Harris was left for dead after being brutally beaten by the mob but lived and fled Louisiana."

Callahan Freed In Dalton Hammer Slaying

Constitution State News Service.
DALTON, Oct. 17.—Ben Callahan, charged with the hammer slaying last July of Homer Griggs, was exonerated at 2 a. m. Thursday after a Whitfield County Superior Court jury deliberated nearly 11 hours before reaching its decision.

Callahan's trial in the July term ended in a mistrial when the jury failed to agree. On the witness stand Callahan reiterated his same story as before, declaring that he was badly beaten by Clint Manis in a fight and that he reached for a claw hammer in self defense, swinging it and striking Griggs, a bystander, by mistake. Griggs died a few days later.

The final of three murder trials this week will be concluded Friday with the trial of Arlan Burke and O. H. Owenby, charged with murder in connection with the death last month of 15-month-old Charles Stines in an automobile accident on the Cleveland Highway.

Britain Advises Greece On Labor Formula

LONDON, Oct. 17—(AP)—A foreign office spokesman said Thursday a British "formula" had been submitted to the Greek government for the reorganization of the Confederation of Greek Labor. Greece had requested advice on the subject.

The confederation was attacked recently by the Greek government and executive members were dismissed on the ground their election was illegal. Subsequently government nominees assumed duties as members of the executive.

Protests from numerous trade union organizations throughout the world—including the World Federation of Trade Unions—followed the Greek government's move.

The spokesman was unable to give details of the British formula, nor was he able to say whether the advice had been accepted.

Bobby Davis Rated Better Than Coulter

Georgia Tech's great Bobby Davis is rated a better tackle than DeWitt Coulter by Bob Woodruff, who should know, having coached them both.

Woodruff at present is the tutor of the tough Yellow Jacket line and last year when Coulter made All-American, he was assistant coach at Army.

This may seem rather startling to some fans, especially when they stop to figure that Brother Coulter is knocking down a cool $19,500 for playing with the New York Giants this season. Davis gets far less than that for playing at Tech.

Woodruff's statement, however, isn't very surprising to the various coaches whose teams have played against Davis or who have watched him in action as spectators. Two of his strongest boosters are Wally Butts at Georgia and Bob Neyland at Tennessee.

"Coulter was a great tackle for the Army," Woodruff said, "but Davis is playing better ball—especially on defense. Why, Davis and Paul Duke, line center, stopped almost half of the Tennessee plays in our game this year."

"A total of 48 running plays were made by the Vols. We counted up the tackles and Duke stopped 11 plays and Davis nine. Of course, Duke, a line backer, is supposed to make more tackles than Davis."

That is remarkable when one stops to figure it out. The count was taken from pictures of the game and only those plays which were actually stopped by Davis or Duke were counted. If they assisted in halting a runner it was not counted.

Head Coach Bobby Dodd doesn't hesitate to amend the statements of his line coach about Davis.

"We've known all along that Bobby is a great tackle," Dodd said. "I said last year he was the best in the country and I believe he's even better this season."

"Davis is the ideal football player," Dodd continued. "I wish every one of our boys were like him. He is quiet and unassuming yet makes a great captain of the team. He works hard all the time and never says or does anything to hurt anyone."

"He is a good student and a fine all-around boy."

Home Is Columbus Davis' home is in Columbus, Ga. B. F. (Shorty) Register, Jordan High basketball coach, talked Tech into giving him a scholarship. The Yellow Jackets, frankly, were a little hesitant. But Register won his point and Bobby came to Tech.

He is a big, fine-looking youngster. He stands six feet four inches and weighs 225 pounds. And he's only 19 years of age. He is fast and strong and excels in diagnosing opponents' plays. In addition, he can go for 60 minutes against tough opponents and never seems to tire.

Bobby will graduate this year. However, he has another season of eligibility left to play football and, quite naturally, Tech coaches are hoping he will be around for the fall of 1947.

Davis made the All-Southeastern Conference team last season and is one of the surest All-American bets we know.

During the past summer Bobby was a counselor at the St. Johns Military Academy camp in Wisconsin, where he taught football. He was very popular with the kids in camp, a fact proven by an incident which happened after the Tech-Ole Miss game Saturday.

One of Bobby's campers was from Mississippi and he attended the game. After it was over, the kid waited around the dressing room to see Davis, his ideal. Davis walked out and immediately noticed the boy wearing the gold and white colors of Tech. Since meeting Davis, the boy had transferred his loyalty from Ole Miss, his home State school, to Tech.

Spark of Line Davis is one of the twin cylinders which spark the powerful Tech line. The other is Paul Duke, the senior center, who Jacket coaches wouldn't trade for Vaughn Mancha or any of the rest.

Duke, an Atlanta boy, has played great football. He and Davis spark a line which has yet to be scored upon along the ground this season. One of Tennessee's touchdowns came on a pass and the other on a pass interception.

Both VMI and Ole Miss scored on passes. Other stars of this defensive combination are Billy Healey and Ewell Pope, the guards. They may be compared to Bob Suffridge and Ed Molinski, Tennessee's great combination of a few years ago.

Suffridge would roam all over the field, making tackles, while Molinski would cover up for him at his spot in the line. Pope, the freshman, is the roamer and Healey covers up for him in the line. Biggest trouble with the Tech team is the lack of reserves. The Yellow Jackets have some great players, but they are not a well-balanced club, which makes it tough against strong opposition.

CAUTION—WRECK RAMBLIN'—A Yellow Jacket backfield, looking like an accident going somewhere to happen to somebody else, charges downfield with its eyes plainly fastened on tomorrow night's struggle with undefeated LSU in Baton Rouge. From left to right it is Pat McHugh, hard-running right halfback; Frank Ziegler, freshman fullback from College Park who is touted for future greatness at the Flats; George Mathews, veteran left halfback and alternate captain; and Frank Broyles, the Jackets' sharpshooting passer and quarterback. Dinky Bowen is expected to start at fullback, but Ziegler is expected to see a lot of action.

Auburn In Fair Shape for Tulane Game

By BERT PRATHER, Constitution Sports Writer

AUBURN, Ala., Oct. 17—Auburn's Tigers headed by Coach Carl Voyles, pulled out of the "Loveliest Village" here tonight for New Orleans and their big battle with Tulane's Green Wave Saturday afternoon in the vast Sugar Bowl Stadium.

Coach Voyles pronounced the team in fair shape for the game with injured Halfback Bill Wilson the only regular not expected to start. Wilson missed the St. Louis game last Saturday in Birmingham.

The Tiger coach said that Tulane's weight and experience should make it a heavy favorite, but that he hoped to make a game of it. Co-captain Sam McClurkin probably will be the only 1945 regular in the starting line-up. Probable freshmen starters are Tom McKinney, center; Floyd Fulmer, right guard; Travis Tidwell and Al Kovacic, halfbacks; and Don Brause, fullback.

Auburn is undefeated, having defeated Mississippi Southern, Furman and St. Louis University. Tulane dropped its opener to Alabama, 7-6, bounced back to whip Florida and then lost to Rice last Saturday.

In Travis Tidwell, New Orleans fans will have an opportunity to see one of the best passers in the South. Travelin' Travis has been outstanding in all three of Auburn's victories this season and barring injuries, seems headed for All-American honors. He doubtless will spearhead the Tiger attack against the Green Wave, which has been installed as a touchdown favorite in some quarters.

Auburn will arrive in New Orleans in time for a light limbering up drill in the afternoon.

Bulldogs Are Favored By 2 TDs Over A. & M.

By JACK JACKSON

ATHENS, Oct. 17—The Georgia Bulldogs began tapering off for Saturday's battle with the Oklahoma Aggies here today, running through a brief signal session in sweat clothes.

The Bulldogs, who have defeated Clemson, Temple, and Kentucky, rule a two-touchdown favorite in local betting, but given a clear day, the game could easily develop into a first-class scoring duel. The Aggies, led by All-American Bob Fenimore, have lost to Texas (54-6) and SMU (15-6) and were tied (21-21) by Arkansas. Their only win is over Denver, who they defeated, 40-7. With Fenimore, who did not play against SMU and was not at full strength against Texas or Arkansas, throwing and running, and End Neil Armstrong heading a corps of experienced receivers, Jim Lookabaugh's club boasts a potentially powerful offense.

The Tiger coach said that Tulane's weight and experience should make it a heavy favorite, but that he hoped to make a game of it. Postwar Vols Test 'Bama's War Babies

By ESCAR THOMPSON

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 17—(UP)—The question of how a powerful "wartime" football team stacks up against a strong "postwar" eleven built from scratch this fall should be answered conclusively Saturday when two of the nation's top 10 teams—Alabama and Tennessee—clash here.

Alabama had one of the strongest wartime teams in the country last year and virtually every member of that squad is back this fall. In fact, Frank Thomas has on hand 10 of the 11 men who started against Southern California last January 1 when the Crimson Tide routed the Trojans, 34-14, in the Rose Bowl and all are expected to start against the Volunteers.

On the other hand, Coach Bob Neyland, back at Tennessee after a five-year stint in the Army, has fashioned his team from a flock of gridders he had never seen before. Eight of Tennessee's starters are 1941-42 veterans and three are yearlings. Neyland inherited nine lettermen from last year's squad, but not a single one will be in the starting line-up.

The lone newcomer appearing in the unbeaten-united Alabama's lineup this fall is Ted Cook, lanky 190-pound end who won his letter in 1942 before entering the Army where he played service football.

The Tide's famed backfield quartet of Harry Gilmer, ace passer; Lowell Tew, hard-charging right halfback; Hal Self, field general and blocking back; and Norwood Hodges, plunging fullback, is back intact and will be starting its third straight season as a unit against the Vols.

The 'Bama line includes Vaughan Mancha, 240-pound All-American center, who will be ably assisted by veterans from wing to wing.

Tennessee's line, which some coaches have described as the strongest in Vol football history, will be studied with veterans of the Vols' 1943 Sugar Bowl team. Back from that eleven, tutored by John Barnhill, are End Bud Hubbell, Tackles Dick Huffman and Denver Crawford, Guards Royal Price and Ray Drost.

Al Russas, who has been starting at end opposite Hubbell, was injured in the Duke game and is a doubtful starter. Davis Stephenson, 200-pound freshman, will start at center.

The backfield Neyland is expected to start consists of two veterans of the '43 Sugar Bowl eleven and a couple of yearlings. Capt. Walter Slater, tailback, and Charley Mitchell, blocking back, will be at the posts they manned in their New Orleans victory over Tulsa. Freshmen Ralph Chancey and George Balitsaris will be at wingback and fullback, respectively.

The game is the tenth renewal of the Neyland-Thomas feud in which the Vol mentor has emerged victorious five times and Thomas three, with one game ending in a scoreless tie. It has been a sell-out more than seven months, assuring a crowd of 40,000 fans.

The victory placed Mrs. Sloan in the seminals, where she will play Mrs. Morton Bright in the feature match on today's program. Mrs. Bright advanced yesterday on a default from Mrs. A. Thompson. 39 Jackets Off By Air for LSU

By TOM MILLER

A big DC-4 will take off from Candler Field at 11:45 this morning carrying a 39-man squad of Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets and the growing upset hopes of Jacket supporters to the Saturday night clash with powerful LSU in Baton Rouge.

Before leaving on the first game trip by air in Tech history, Coach Bobby Dodd said he believed his injury-injured squad was ready for its best performance of the season so far.

"We're in the best shape we've been in all year and the boys are keyed up for this one," he stated. "We'll be playing the best game possible."

Dodd concealed no illusions about the Tigers, undefeated after rolling over three strong foes.

ONE OF BEST "We rate LSU among the top teams of the nation. Our scouts have all come back with reports that it's the best offensive team in the South."

"On our side, we're lots better than we were against Tennessee, if for no other reason than that we now have Frank Broyles back in shape and able to play up to his capabilities."

Outside the prospect of playing a veteran Tiger team, deep in reserves, the Jackets will be under the handicap of playing under lights, their first and only night tilt this season. Coach Bernie Moore, however, has watched his powerhouse roll to victories under artificial lights in three games.

WORK UNDER LIGHTS The Tech squad has worked out twice under the lights of Grant Field to familiarize itself with lighting conditions and will work out Friday night on the LSU gridiron. Tech coaches say the eleven "played one of its best games last season against Navy under lights and that practically all on the roster had night football experience while in high school."

THE TRAVELING SQUAD END—Jimmy Castberry, Atlanta; Bill Busby, Atlanta; Robert Jordan, Aniston, Ala.; Walter Kilzer, Trenton, Tenn.; George Broadnax, Atlanta; and Jack Griffin, Atlanta.

TACKLES—Bob Davis, Columbus; Ralph Slater, Atlanta; Dan Bradach, Streator, Ill.; Tom Coleman, Savannah; John Bair Kingsport, Tenn.; Dean Gaines, Decatur, Tenn.; Hays McKinney, Gadsden, Ala.; Luke Bowen, Atlanta; Rolle Phillips, Panama, Texas; Frank Beall, Atlanta; Carlo Kingrey, Huntington, W. V.; Ewell Pope, Atlanta.

CENTERS—Paul Duke, Atlanta; Louis Hook, Savannah; Jim Nolan, Macon; Raymond Smith, Atlanta.

BACKS—Frank Broyles, Decatur; Jim Stills, Pensacola, Fla.; Jack Bille, Dallas; Jimmy Southard, Atlanta; George Matthews, Columbus; Jimmy Pettit, Savannah; Tommy Carpenter, Winston-Salem, N. C.; Jimmy Jordan, Birmingham, Ala.; Pat McHugh, Orville, Ala.; Joe Brown, Plant City.

GUARDS—Billy Williams, Irving, Texas; Mickey Logan, Savannah; Dink Underwood, Atlanta; Johnny Miller, Topeka, Kan.; Jimmy McWhorter, Decatur, Ga.; Alex Williams, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Decatur, Gainesville Clash Here Tonight

West Fulton Threatened By Russell

By CHARLIE ROBERTS
Decatur Boys High, despite a brilliant record of five victories in a like number of starts this year, rates no better than an even chance when they face Drane Watson's Gainesville Red Elephants at 8 o'clock tonight on the Decatur Field where the winners will automatically make themselves favorites to capture the 1946 NGIC championship.

Coch Lewis Woodruff is as nervous as a cat in deep hunting season as his club prepares to take on the invaders who also are under the date. The "sophomore coach" of the defending champions has lost the whole right side of his line since the season began. Sonny Jakes, Clayton Ford, Jack Coza, Aubrey Waters and Holmes Colquitt all are unavailable because of mishaps of one nature or another.

TWO BIG STARS
However, he has one of the conference's finest passers in Auburn Lambeth, and Frank (Moose) Miller is the most feared climax runner of them all. Miller, who was the leading NGIC scorer last year, now has 63 counters to run second to sensational Hubert Hitchcock of West Fulton with 73.

Gainesville last year bowed to Decatur, 24-19, in the most brilliant encounter of the season, and most of the stars from that eleven are back, including Bobby Aaron, McKay and Roberts, three powerful scoring stalwarts. Aaron quick-kicked stubborn Griffin out of a ball game only last week.

Decatur has trampled Fulton, Russell, Spalding, Commercial and North Fulton in order. Watson's charges also have five straight victories, including Waycross, 20-0, and Griffin, 9-0, among their victims. Vassa Cate, coach of Waycross, lauded the Elephants as one of the best high school elevens he has seen.

Another important NGIC clash, the West Fulton-Russell go at 8 o'clock tonight at West Fulton, very well could produce an upset.

Coach Vic Hansard's homelings will find R. L. Bowen's Wildcats no part of a pushover despite the former's unbeaten status and the presence of Hubert Hitchcock in the lineup. The 'Cats have a fine running attack, featuring Warren Moody and Ralph Stamps, and always are dangerous.

TYPISTS-HAPEVILLE
O. E. Owen's Commercial Typists will journey to the Russell High Field at the same time to tangle with Roy Brewer's fast-stepping Hapeville club, the NGIC surprise eleven. The Hapeville field is still not ready for night play, thus the switch to the Russell grid.

College Park and Athens will play at 8:30 p. m. today in Athens, the game counting in both the NGIC and NGFA, and Claude Wills' Fulton Redbirds will seek their second victory in a row when they invade Marietta tonight for a tiff with the Blue Devils.

'Lady,' Cracker Mascot, Missing

The Atlanta Crackers' official mascot is missing. "Lady," three-year-old red Pomeranian owned by Groundkeeper Howard Hubbard and almost as familiar sight on the Cracker diamond last season as Manager Kiki Cuyler, has been stolen or has strayed away from home and the whole Cracker official family is upset.

Any regular baseball fan will recognize "Lady" on sight so if anyone sees the dog they are requested to contact Hubbard at the ball park or at his home.

Lightweight Bout On WAGA Tonight
Two flashy lightweights have a corner on Manhattan's sock market tonight. Lulu Costantino (above) of New York's East Side and Johnny Dell, Brooklyn, have it out in a ten-round headliner that will be aired over stations of the ABC Network.

Lulu, the Candy Kid, is rated among boxing's foremost lightweights. He knows all the tricks of the fistfighting trade. He feints—he boxes—he's noted for his shifty, agile footwork. And he has stamina and confidence.

LAMPE LEAVES FOR DARTMOUTH

ATHENS, Oct. 17—Elmer Lampe, former Georgia basketball coach and assistant football coach, who recently resigned to accept a like post at Dartmouth College, left today for the New England school.

His successor, Ralph Johnson, passed through Athens and will return to take up his new duties on Wednesday.

Tech Bs Meet Vols Tomorrow

Georgia Tech's "B" team will attempt to avenge the earlier defeat of the varsity here Saturday in Grant Field when it meets the "B" team of the University of Tennessee. Kickoff is scheduled for 2:30 p. m.

Officials at Tech said the west stands of the stadium would be thrown open to the public free of charge, providing a football afternoon free on a day schedule makers routed the games elsewhere.

To assure a high caliber of football Tech has secured Southeastern Conference officials to handle the game.

The Tech "Bees," under the direction of Coach Joe Pittard, will be trying for their first victory, having lost a close game to Clemson's "B" eleven in Albany last Saturday.

SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 17—(AP)—John (Les) Dickman was appointed head basketball coach at the University of Scranton today.

Hapeville Alumni Clips Jonesboro

The Hapeville Alumni eleven defeated the Jonesboro grads, 18-6, last night on the Russell High field. Hapeville tallied one touchdown in the first, one in the third and another in the fourth. The Jonesboro six-pointer came in the third period.

Jack Caldwell blocked a punt that Hapeville recovered at the enemy two-yard line to set up the first-period tally, Johnny Wilkins bulled over.

Albert Rausey aerialled 20 yards to Frank Coggins who ran 21 more for the second Hapeville tally in the third period. A 20-yard pass from Jack Foster to Jimmy Babb gave the losers their only score soon afterwards.

A 20-yard pass from Stallings to Coggins put the ball one yard from pay dirt in the fourth period. Rausey scored from there.

Purples Play Marist; Tech High in Macon

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Boys High and Tech High, those never lovin' rivals of many years' standing—and fighting—weary from playing out-of-the-State powerhouses, will resume their quests for the Georgia State championship tonight when the Purples tangle with Marist at 8 o'clock at Ponce de Leon Park and the Smithies journey to Macon to engage Lanier.

The two Atlanta teams, originally voted the 'elevens most likely to succeed in the GIAA championship race, both are facing clubs that could give the dope bucket a sound kicking around tonight.

Shorty Doyal's Purples, with a record of won four and lost two, are undefeated in three GIAA starts and are seeking their seventh State title in eight years. Shorty will have Herb Weaver and Leon Butts back for the Marist fray, but he is shy of full-backs with Glenn Lautzenhiser and Julian LeCraw ailing. Half-back Don Knighton also is sidelined with a back injury. Jimmy Thompson will take over in place of Holly Murdock at his old starting post at left half.

Coach Bill Kirkland's Marist eleven, sparked by Archie Burdette, Ed Sansbury and George Maloof, upset very strong Lanier early in the year and conceivably could give the Doyalmen real trouble if they are hot.

Selby Buck's Poets are reportedly much improved after a slow start. They bowed to Marist and very rugged Columbus before tying Savannah, one of the best elevens in the State. Willie Lovett and Bill Veal form one of the top

Burke, Riley To Headline Mat Program

Mildred Burke, for eight years champion of women wrestlers, and Tex Riley, newly crowned junior heavyweight champion, will appear in headline matches of tonight's Auditorium program for the Atlanta Boys Club building fund.

In addition to the matches presenting two champions, Promoter Paul Jones has arranged a tag team event and two other attractions. Participants are appearing for expenses only. Regular prices are being charged for the Boys Club benefit.

Burke's opponent will be Juanita Coffman, a winner here last week. Coffman outweighs the champion by 20 pounds.

Riley will take on Rowdy Red Roberts, a hard-hitting Texan. Tag team principals include Don McIntyre and Al Massey as one team and Tom Mahoney and Jack O'Brien as the other.

Jim Coffield and Dick Lever meet in the second match. Babe Zaharias and Bibber McCoy, normally headliners, will open the program at 8:30.
